In The Lyons' Den You Find What's Good In Farming With Family

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MILLVILLE (Columbia Co.) — When you drive in the farm lane, you are greeted with the sign, "Lyons' Den," on the barn. This little humorous referral to the Joe and Betty Lyons family who live here makes you smile at the takeoff on the family name. Subconsciously, you have a warm feeling for those involved in this farming operation.

The three sons and their families are all a close-knit part of the 600-acre farming operation. Included in the family on the farm are Rich and Cheri and their children Emily 8, and Wesley 5; Terry and Cindy; and Joey and Angie and their children Caleb 14, Katie 11, Nathan 7, and Shelby 2. You could say this is a pride (family) of Lyons. Daughter and son-in-law Linda and John Dent own and operate a nearby horse farm.

The family dairy farm enterprise started in 1965 when Betty's father gave an oral agreement to begin the transfer of the farm to Joe and Betty. Monthly payments for the cows and machinery began, and by 1972 the farm was turned over to the present generation and a partnership was formed. Through time, the partnership evolved to where today father and sons have equal ownership in the value of the entire operation.

From 16 cows in the first year of operation, the herd has grown to about 85 milk cows and another 80 replacement heifers. The growth has been gradual using home-raised replacements to increase the herd size. For many years the herd average stayed at about 16,000 pounds. When the herd size had reached the desired number and the opportunity came to cull the low end of the herd, production reached 21,000 pounds. But in recent years, a small amount of BST has been used and 3x milking has been started. This has taken the LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — One day, Cory and Kevin Pfautz were pouring over a black and white swine sire catalog when they noticed an entry that stood out.

A Hampshire boar from a company in Chrisman, Ill. showed a sire potential for a 9.28-inch loineye.

The brothers thought that was pretty intriguing. So they wondered about mating the Hampshire with Kevin's Hampshire/Duroc sow.

Could the family obtain some litters with barrows reaching a 9-inch loineye (a respectable size for a side of meat, considering some of the highest in the industry reaches only about eight inches at best)?

What's there to lose?

It was worth a try. After all, the dam was out of a Premier John 7-2, which had potential for some genetically explosive results.

Sure enough, Cory, son of Rick and Sue Pfautz, Lititz, along with Kevin and their sister Lisa, bred a hog that was sired using the Illinois genetics. In October they took it to this year's Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. They entered it in the barrow on-rail competition.

And of course, there were fireworks — of sorts. The "genetic

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Tue, Dec 23, 1997

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids close mixed. Very good overnight sale to Pakistan offered some support to wheat bids. However, export sales compared to a year ago are very low and prices sharply lower than the same time a year ago. Corn bids turned higher after three consecutive days of lower trends. Export demand very slow but strength from fund buying and traders positioning themselves ahead of the holidays, underpinned bids. Soybean bids were near steady with a weak undertone as lack of export sales and year end liquidation selling weighed on bids. Wheat mixed. Corn 2 to 7 cents higher. Sorghum 6 to 12 cents higher. Soybeans steady to 1 cent lower.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

DEC. 29, 1997-JAN. 4, 1998

HOLY INNOCENTS, DEC. 29.

NEW YEAR, NEW BABY

What better way to start the New Year than with a brand new baby? Every January, we see a few new faces from the maternity wards gracing the newspapers. But did you know that J. Edgar Hoover, later head of the F.B.I. for almost 50 years, was a New Year's baby? So, too, were writers J. D. Salinger (Catcher in the Rye) and E. M. Forster (A Passage to India). Actress and comic Carole Landis was another beautiful baby born on January 1. And Paul Revere and Betsy Ross started their patriotic days on New Year's Day. Barry Goldwater did the same.

A man shows in his youth what he will be in his age.

– Yugoslavian proverb

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Rosemary and lemon-balm teas are reputed to combat postpartum depression.

HAM-AND-BEAN SOUP

1 pound dry, small white beans
1-1/2 pounds ham hock
1 onion, chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
1-1/2 cups peeled, diced potatoes
1 cup chopped carrots
salt and pepper, to taste

Soak beans overnight; drain. Add 10 cups fresh water, ham hock, onion, and garlic. Cover and simmer 1½ hours. Add vegetables and simmer for another hour. Remove ham hock, cool, and cut any remaining meat from bone, returning the meat to the soup. Season to taste. Leftovers freeze well.

Makes 6 servings.

The Old Farmer's WEATHER PROVERBS

When the Moon runs low (Dec. 29), expect unseasonably warm weather.

Wolves always howl more before a storm.

DMI Launches Largest-Ever Cheese Campaign

ROSEMONT, Ill. – Dairy Management Inc. (DMI0 has launched, "Behold the power of Cheese™", its largest-ever campaign geared to increasing consumer cheese consumption.

"'Behold the power of Cheese,' which is funded by dairy farmer checkoff dollars, is based on DMI consumer segmentation study that identified the two key consumer groups with the greatest long-term growth potential of the dairy industry," said DMI Chairman Herman Brubaker, an Ohio dairy farmer.

"These two consumer segments, called cheese cravers and enhancers account for 44 percent of all at-home cheese consumption. Our data shows they can be persuaded to consume significantly more cheese," he added.

This new, integrated campaign is supported by a $55 million budget for local and national promotion representing a funding increase of more than 40 percent over the 1997 cheese marketing plan.

The "Behold the power of Cheese" advertising, retailer programs, foodservice marketing and public relations components of the plan are designed to directly reach both cheese "cravers" and cheese "enhancers" with messages and motivations to buy more cheese.

"DMI's cheese marketing plan represents a new era for dairy farmers, " said Tom Gallagher, DMI chief executive office.

"Increased operating efficiencies and a coordinated plan with industry partners for fluid milk marketing freed up more dollars for cheese, allowing DMI's farmer directors to approve their largest, most comprehensive cheese program to date. Our goal is to raise cheese consumption from the current level of 28.6 pounds per person annually to 31 pounds per person by the year 2000," he said.

The cornerstone of the cheese marketing plan is the brand new national advertising campaign that targets the hearts and taste buds of consumers with the tagline "Behold the power of Cheese.™"

A seasonal television spot is airing in December only in order to capitalize on holiday sales opportunities. The full campaign, which includes national television and print advertising, will launch in late February.

Addition program elements include:

•Retail marketing efforts designed to motivate consumers to act on cheese cravings triggered by the advertising campaign.

•Foodservice partnering efforts to develop new and improved restaurant menu items highlighting cheese.

•An aggressive consumer public relation campaign featuring media placements, consumers leaflets and other tactics highlighting cheese.

DMI manages the American Dairy Association®, National Dairy Council® and U.S. Dairy Export Council®.

OPINION

Hope For The New Year

The Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders moved forward earlier this month. We think this forward motion took longer than it should have, but we believe it's a case of better late than never.

Actually, the idea started about five years ago when a few officials of different organizations, companies, and academia with an interest in saving the dairy industry in Pennsylvania met to discuss a more unified voice for the industry. Over the years, the idea stayed alive, but progress in unification was slow.

At the 1997 Dairy Futures Conference held in State College several weeks ago, not only did a powerful group of dairy leaders get together to hear about the state of the industry, they approved a set of by-laws and elected directors and officers. That's a good start, but only a start.

With dairy prices to farmers not even covering the costs of $250 a ton hay and various other inflated input costs, the whole industry in the Northeast is on course to become like the Southeast where large gaps are found between consumption and production. In addition, real estate taxes and environmental stranglehelds are sucking the life out of the dairy industry as we know it.

No one can say the dairy industry is dead. The commercial disapparence of dairy products has increased in the last five or six years. Many other industries would love to have this kind of record. People will get their milk, cheese, and other dairy products from somewhere.

In the Northeast we have not only close markets, we have the pipeline in place to ship product to the Southeast. With the citrus tankers bringing orange juce concentrate up to our plants, the same plants that handle our milk, we are in position to sell even more milk than we do now.

The problem is supply. And the supply problem is down-on-the-farm economics. If the supply cannot be produced by our farmers, the citrus tankers will just keep on going north into Canada to get their return cargo.

Now that we have the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders, Inc., we hope to see more action than a yearly conference where all the articulate and powerful dairy leaders get together to discuss what is right or wrong with the dairy industry. Every official who attended the futures conference depends on some farmer getting up at 4 a.m each morning to milk the cows. And until we make sure the farmer can make a decent living, rather than just having a way of life, every one of our businesses and jobs is in jeopardy.

We need economic action. We need political action. We need taxation action. We need environmental action. Our national strength has its roots in American agriculture in general and the dairy industry in particular. We need to take a stand against all forces that would weaken our food supply.

As we begin the new year, we look with anticipation for the activities by The Pennsylvania Stakeholders that are specifically designed to save Northeast dairy farms.

To Be A Successful Dairy Business

At a recent dairy meeting, Dr. David Galton of Cornell University was optimistic about dairying in the Northeast. A number of things are working in our favor. These include: Our farms are smaller but more secure with greater profit margins per cow. We can grow low cost, high quality forage.

We have an available supply of low cost water. We can sustain higher production levels with less environmental stress on cows. We are within easy reach of about half of the U.S. consumer market. We are the furthermost distance from the lowest cost milk producing regions. We have a lot of highly competitive, efficient farms. We have a good infrastructure to support a viable dairy industry. Our producers are more willing to share ideas, practices and data for the benefit of all.

To Know Factors Affecting Profitability

Dr. David Galton, Cornell University, has identified the following as main factors affecting farm profitability. Productivity including per cow, per acre and per worker. Herd size will determine overhead cost and efficiency of the operation. Cost control of both overhead and operating costs. Debt service including total debt, debt servicing cost and investment strategies. Milk price including quality premiums and negotiating prices.

Management characteristics of profitable dairy farms includes: They have excellent control of fixed and variable costs. They work with low debt or no debt. They keep capital investments to a minimum. Cows generate income. Buildings,, machinery and equipment do not generate income. They keep cows healthy and productive and improve labor efficiency. But they are an expense item and need to be keep at a minimum. They have high levels of production. They start early to plan for retirement and for the transfer of the business.

To Look At Business Parameters

Dr. David Galton, Cornell University, offers the following business parameters. These figures are debatable and vary with size and kind of farm. They are good benchmark figures to compare your numbers with and for developing your own goals. Cows per worker: 30 to 50. Milk shipped per cow: 19,000 pounds. Add another 1,500 to 2,000 pounds for three times a day milking. Milk sold per worker: 600,000 to 1,000,000. Cost per hundredweight of milk: $10 to 11. Profit margin per cow: over $600. Capital investment per cow: $4,000 to 6,000. Keep to a minimum. Debt per cow: less than $2,000. $3,000 temporarily during expansion. Debt service per cow: less than $300 to 500.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WE SHALL OVERCOME!
December 28, 1997

Background Scripture:
1 John 5: 1-12
Devotional Reading:
Romans 8:31-39

Green Bay Packers Coach Vince Lombardi has often been quoted as saying, "Winning isn't the best thing; it's the only thing."

On reflection, I think he was quite wrong about football and all other sports. It is certainly 'not the only thing.' I played several sports and if winning was all there was to my effort, I would have felt cheated.

When it comes to life, however I think Coach Lombardi's words are right on target—even though he apparently meant only sports—winning is the only thing that counts.

Now, before my readers rise up in indignation at that statement, let me hasten to say that it all depends upon what you mean by "winning." In Football, unless there's an unbroken tie score, one team wins and the other loses. I'm not talking about that kind of winning.

Nor am I thinking about that series of contests throughout life in which we struggle to be victorious; school, career, marriage, parenthood, avocations, and so forth. One can be victorious without being first. I certainly wasn't first in my class at college or seminary, but I did feel victorious in earning my two degrees.

Being victorious in life is not less than being number-one, but more. When Admiral Nelson sent home to England his dispatches following the battle of the Nile, he wrote: "Victory is not a name strong enough for such a science as this." I feel the same way about life: victory is not a name strong enough to describe what we all seek to achieve.

OVERCOMING THE WORLD

1 John uses the work "overcome." "For whatever is born of God," he writes, "overcomes the world; and this is the victory that overcomes the world, our faith" (5:4). When he says that this victory "overcomes the world," he means not that the Christian has conquered the world as Tamerlane, Napoleon and Hilter attempted to do. Rather, it means not letting the world take away our faith in God through Jesus Christ.

In Pilgrim's Progress, John Bunyan writes, "A Christian can never be overcome, unless he shall yield of himself." We lose our faith when we believe in something else more strongly than in our God. If we believe more strongly in defeat, fate, our own weakness or unworthiness, yes we will be overcome by the world.

Overcoming the world is really a matter of faith. When one nears the last stages of earthly life, we begin to realize the trophies we have won—recognition by the world—are not really comforting at all. Then it is that we begin to yearn for something else, something that assures us we will not die in vain or in defeat.

A FAITH MATTER

As important as I have been to myself throughout life—that is human ego—I have presided over enough funerals to know that that sense of importance will die with me. People will remember me for a while. Some of the things I did will have last for a time. But 100 years from now my name, like yours, will probably amount to no more in this world than at best an electronic blip on someone's data bank. Relatively few ever beat those odds.

So, ultimately, all I have to cling to is my faith that I will be in God's loving, redeeming hands. "Who is it that overcomes the world but he who believers that Jesus is the Son of God?" (5:5).

"When he was about to cross the Adriatic to fight the Romans, the Greek hero Pyrrhus was asked by an old philosopher, "What will you do after you have conquered Rome?" "Next, I'll take Sicily" was the reply. "And then?" "Next Greece!" Pyrrhus replied. "After all this," countered the philosopher, "You won't have anything left to conquer, so what will you do then?" Pyrrus though for a moment and then replied: "We'll go home and have a grand banquet with wreaths and flowers on our heads." "Ah," said the philosopher, "but you could do that now!"

The victory is still out of sight, but we can start celebrating it now!

The Building you want.
The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost And call your Telmark representative

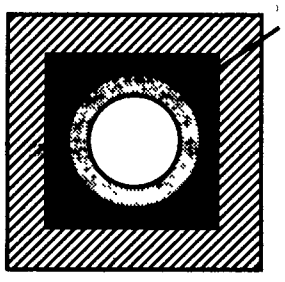
... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."



Chimtek Inner Liners are madeof volcanic pumice and high-tempertature refractory cements, Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimteck liners adds considerable insulating value.

All three chimneyliner systems disbrttubed by DS Machine Shop are of super design, super performance, and super value. With all their advantages these chimney systems often cost no more than ordinary chimneys. Write or call us for more specific liner information.

Our new location is located at:
183 South Farmersville Road, Leola, PA

Directions: North side of Rt. 23, 7/10 mile on South Farmersville Rd.

ATTENTION ALL 609 Tobacco Farmers

You need to grade your tobacco in 3 grades (TOPS - MIDDLES - BOTTOMS) and keep all green and yellow tobacco (OUT-GRADES) out of those top 3 grades. Make sure you don't strip your tobacco too damp. Tobacco that is too damp will heat and be damaged and there may be no market for that tobacco.

ATTENTION: To our Contract Growers. The tobacco that we have under contract must be delivered to us by Jan. 13, 1998.

Must call for delivery dates.

Solutions In The Seed™

TMF100 100-day RM A TMF silage hybrid for the northern Corn Belt that delivers excellent tonnage and high grain-content forage. Produces four to six more leaves about the ear than most "dual-purpose" grain hybrids but with slightly shorter plant height than TMF106 Excellent plant health and tolerance to drought stress.

TMF114 114-day RM The first and only hybrid bred exclusively for silage that also carries the NGBt1 gene to protect against first and second brood European corn borer damage. Very large, leafy plants with excellent staygreen. Manage this hybrid as you would TMF113. Prefers fertile soils and a final stand of 25,000-27,000 plants per acre.

Strategies For A Too-Low Milk Price

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — Of course, the price of milk is too low.

Who can argue that current milk production costs, even without factoring in appreciation of assets and reasonable manager compensation, is equal to the farmgate payment for milk?

No bank or investment company could continue to operate under such conditions, yet dairy farmers stay in business by tightening their belts and worrying.

I do not criticize, but I have to ask — what else are you doing about this "challenge" to your livelihood?

You are not alone — this situation is the same worldwide.

I grew up on a small diversified farm, which made a fair living milking between six to eight cows and harvesting many different crops.

Now in Europe, farmers, just where I was, are being told by Common Market officials that the "dairy farm of the future" will have at least 60 cows!

What a challenge to these small farmers, many of whom will disappear within a generation under such a policy. Yet this turn of events was inevitable. We have outsmarted ourselves with research-based progress that often exceeds the demands of the consumer population.

As a result of our quest for progress in genetics and in more efficient management, we are producing surpluses of dairy products.

U.S. Cooperative Extension has translated these technological research advances into management progress on the dairy farm far beyond the need of domestic consumer demands. As a result, it was hoped that government officials would travel abroad to "peddle" our surplus dairy products to other countries.

This "peddling" often has not worked too well. At least, it seems as though U.S. poultry producers are much more successful in selling their broilers abroad. Maybe their advertisement is more effective or their price is more attractive.

Of course, we dairy producers have been so eager to rid ourselves of government interference in dairy business and milk marketing orders that we now may well have stranded ourselves somewhat.

If we produce too much, we can follow one of two strategies — produce less or sell more.

High feed costs force many dairy farmers to buy less concentrate supplement, to rely more on farm-grown feeding and to switch to more grazing. But this also means lower milk production, which an oversupplied market might welcome.

The produce-less strategy may mean that the glory days of super records of cows under DHIA award systems and young sire-proving plans may be in question.

The sell-more strategy has some farmers organizing on their own for self-help, because they have become frustrated with government officials.

It sounds as though U.S. dairy farmers unknowingly are in a transition state similar to their counterparts in the former communist states: Get rid of government support, intervention and subsidy.

On the other hand, when government minimum prices and support have ceased, where does a sufficient monthly cash flow to the dairy farm come from? Is this the dairy producer's Catch 22?

Dairy farmers in the former Societ Union are up against similar problems, and they are working hard to find alternatives.

Having been in Romania and Macedonia several times recently, I have seen firsthand what this means.

United States volunteers from the Mid Atlantic region, and organizations, including our own Land O'Lakes Company, have extended a helping hand to those struggling dairy farmers.

Who, you may ask, is extending a hand to struggling U.S. dairy farmers?

Self-help is happening in the United States, too.

Many dairy farmers have increased their herd size tremendously. This works, to some extent, under the law of "economics of scale."

For the first time ever in Delaware, there are dairy herds above 500 cows milking. But bigger will also mean more risk.

Such a strategy does not necessarily mean better net income, because of the dependence on skilled and reliable labor, now the number-one problem according to several studies.

What other alternatives do struggling dairy farmers have when the milk prive at the farmgate is too low and they do not want to sell out to developers?

Value-added production or "vertical integration" has been a positive alternative for many dairy farmers, especially in states that support these initiatives such as Pennsylvania.

It is legal and not too difficult in Pennsylvania to start your own milk-bottling business and sell milk retail from your farm at a much better price, even under a raw-milk license.

Not so in neighboring states.

My son-in-law recently showed me some slips he received for newborn bull calves.

They showed $0 net, because the price of hauling to auction and the auction commission equalled the current, extremely low, price for a healthy 90-pound Holstein calf!

How can dairy farmers survive under such conditions?

Auctioneers get their money one way or another, butchers also get their money, but the farmer — who bred the cow, fed her for the 9½ months of pregnancy, delivered the calf through sometimes difficult and costly birth — gets nothing for all the work and investment!

Some dairy farmers say that production does not pay anymore unless it includes butchering and retailing — another example of vertical integration.

The same challenge confronts dairy farmers with milk production.

Whether we like it or not, something has to give.

Cooperatives were formed some 70 years ago as the solution to regulate market surplus and milk demand in relation to a fair price for the farmer.

Today, when similar hardship conditions exist, what solutions are cooperatives offering?

Although many dairy farmers are discouraged, some are opting for their own retail businesses or adding value to their milk production by making and retailing their

Farmers Urged To Complete Census

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers across Pennsylvania and the nation are being asked to take a few minutes to fill out the 1997 Census of Agriculture report form. This is the 25th time since 1840 that data have been collected on America's agricultural activity, but the 1997 Census will be the first one conducted by NASS, USDA.

In Pennsylvania the 1997 Census of Agriculture will be coordinated by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS).

American agriculture is a dynamic, evolving industry and many changes have occurred in rural America in the five years since the last Census of Agriculture was taken. The need for reliable statistics about our nation's farmers and ranchers has never been greater. Conducting the agriculture census is the only way we get information to measure trends in the structure of American agriculture at the national, state, and county level. It is the only source of uniform, comprehensive data on production, inventories, sales, expenditures, and operator characteristics — on a county-by-county basis for some 3,100 counties.

Agriculture census data serve as a foundation for agricultural statistics. They are widely used by farm organizations, legislators, and those who provide goods and services to farmers and ranchers.

The census report form is detailed, but all information on individual farm operations is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published, and only sworn National Agricultural Statistics Service employees see the individual report forms.

Considering the need for accurate information to face the challenges of the next five years, sitting down and filling out the 1997 Census of Agriculture report form may be the best few minutes farmers and ranchers can invest in the future of American agriculture.

Strategies For A Too-Low Milk Price

own yogurt and cheese.

Does this make financial sense? Just look at grocery market shelves.

Typical cheese prices charged by stores range from $3 to $25/pound, depending on type, age, origin and import (which includes customs duty).

Cow milk cheeses range from $3 to $15, while sheep and goat milk cheeses, such as Roquefort, Pecorino, Chevre and Feta (some from domestic production), often command higher prices.

In England, the new alternative on some farms has become milking sheep for the high prices sheep cheeses bring. In Norway in recent years, the alternative for some cow farmers has been milking dairy goats for their popular goat cheeses.

Packaging in smaller units instead of gallons or pounds also improves the final price per pound; so does "low fat," "low salt," "low cholesterol" or organic designations.

If one assumes that 50 percent of the retail price reflects the cost for processing, storing, packaging and promotion, then the cheese prices from $4 to $25 per pound mean $1.50 to $12.50 per pound toward the cost of the milk in each cheese.

If we assume 10 pounds of cheese are derived from 100 pounds of milk, then the milk price looks better for farmers retailing their own milk in the form of cheese — $15 to $125.50 per 100 pounds milk!

In addition to the "produce-less" strategy, the "sell-more" strategy, and the "value-added" strategy, you might try what some Florida farmers have done for years. Instead of sticking with low-fat Holsteins, breed for high-test Holsteins or add Jerseys to the herd.

How does this strategy make financial sense?

A herd with 100 Holsteins at 1,300 pounds bodyweight and 20,000 pounds milk per year might be equal to 130 Jerseys at 1,000 pounds bodyweight and 15,000 pounds milk, in terms of total feed consumption, although more labor and housing are needed.

In terms of bodyweight, the two herds are equal; they also are about equal in terms of total milk produced — 2,000,000 pounds Holstein milk vs. 1,950,000 pounds Jersey milk per herd per year.

However, the farmgate price for Holstein milk is currently about $13 per 100 pounds; for Jersey milk, it is $15 per 100 pounds, because of the difference in composition.

This is $260,000 per year for the 100-head Holstein herd verus $292,500 per year for the 130-head Jersey herd. A nice little extra $32,500 milk money for the Jersey herd per year.

The same could be said of any Holstein herd, if they are bred to produce a higher milk composition.

My wish for you for the New Year is that one of these strategies will prove to be a solution to your current too-low milk price.

VIRGINIA ISHLER

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The 1997 cropping season has left many producers with either no to very little haycrop forages. Corn silage will be the predominant, if not the total forage, fed on many farms. There are several issues to consider when managing corn silage rations for the dairy herd.

Due to the scattered rain showers that fell throughout the Northeast, corn growth was extremely variable. This means that the nutrient content and quality of corn silage will be far from consistent. Forage analyses will be essential in determining how to manage these high corn silage diets. All silage samples should be tested for dry matter, crude protein, soluble and degradable protein, acid detergent fiber, neutral detergent fiber (NDF), ash, and minerals. Because of differences in ear and stalk development, requesting lignin and starch to the analyses may be warranted.

If corn silage is going to dominate the milking ration with no or minimal amounts of hay or haylage, then properly balancing rations based on forage NDF, total NDF, and particle size distribution will be critical. Byproduct ingredients that complement a heavy corn silage ration and that help balance fiber are corn gluten feed, brewers grain (wet or dry), wheat midds, soyhulls, and cottonseed.

Particle size of corn silage will be important to help maintain good digestibility and normal rumen function. When corn silage makes up a greater proportion of the ration, it is recommended to have 5-10 percent of the particles greater than 0.75 inches, 40-50 percent of the particles between 0.75 and 0.31 inches, and 40-50 percent of the particles less than 0.31 inches (Penn State particle size separator, 1996). Corn silage that is chopped and rolled should have between 10-15 percent of the particles greater than 0.75 inches. The rest of the particle size distribution would be similar to what was stated previously.

Since corn silage normally tests around 8-9 percent crude protein, more supplemental protein will be needed compared to heavy hay or haylage diets. Ideal protein ingredients include both soy- and animal-based sources. A nonprotein nitrogen source like Feed grade urea can work well in corn silage diets. However, if appreciable amounts of urea are fed in the milk cow diet, then some urea should be included in the close-up dry cow diet. This allows the dry cows to become acclimated to having urea in the ration and minimize off-feed problems.

There will be mineral feeding changes that occur with increasing proportions of corn silage. More supplemental calcium will be included in the diet because of the low calcium content in corn silage. An added potassium source may be necessary to meet the milk cow's minimum potassium requirement of 1.20 percent (dry matter basis). If urea is included in the diet at substantial levels, then maintaining adequate sulfur levels in the diet will be important. Including a buffer in the ration at 0.8 percent of the total ration dry matter would be a sound recommendation.

There are other miscellaneous issues to consider if corn silage is going to be the predominate forage fed throughout the winter. Monitoring body condition on all animal groups beind fed high corn silage dietes will be critical. The potential exists for cows and heifers to become too fat. This can lead to disastrous problems in the future for ketosis, fatty livers, poor dry matter intakes, and low production to name a few.

World Record Milk Production Shattered By Wisconsin Holstein

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. – A Wisconsin Holstein recently shattered the previous world record for milk production, producing nearly 68,000 pounds of milk in one year. Muranda Oscar Lucinda, owned by Floyd and Lloyd Baumann, and Fred Lang, of Marathon, Wis., produced 67,914 pounds of milk in 365 days on twice-daily milkings.

This is the second world record producer owned by the Baumanns. In October 1996, their home-bred cow, Twin-B-Dairy Aerosta Lynn, produced 63,444 pounds of milk in 365 days on twice-daily milkings.

With the completion of her 365-day record in November 1997, Lucinda's record of 3-04 2x 67,914M 2216F 2248P surpassed the record of Twin-B-Dairy Aerosta Lynn. Lucinda is the fourth cow to produce more than 60,000 pounds of milk in 365 days. Previous record holders include, Raim Mark Jinx, with a 3x 365-day record of 60,440 pounds milk, and Bell-Jr Rosabel-ET, with a 3x 365-day record of 60,380 pounds milk.

Lucinda (VG-86) was born July 1, 1993. She is sired by Art-Acres Ned Boy Oscar-ET and out of High-Sights Cleitus Lulu, and 87-point Cleitus daughter. She is first on the National Leaders List for milk in the 2x 305-day junior three-year-old class, and first for protein and fifth for fat in the same class. The herd was verification tested three times during her lactation.

Lloyd Baumann said Lucinda is given no special treatment in the herd - "she's right there with all the others." BST was administered during her lactation.

"When she had a good first lactation (44,950 pounds milk in 365 days) we were hoping she would do well if she stayed on the same track," he added. "She's the type of cow that's 'all milk'."

He also said she had remained steady and strong the entire lactation, and that good feed management contributed to her production. "If you have a good feeding program and good forages, the cows will milk," he noted. He estimated Lucinda is consuming close to 80 pounds of dry matter daily.

Lucinda has two milking daughters in the herd, a two-year-old Darkstar and a two-year-old Ethan. Langs-Twin B D-Star Jolie is recently fresh and has a 93-day record of 11,298M 308F 352P. Langs-Twin-B Lacey-ET has a 237 day record of 28,848M 942F 986P. "It's a good family," Lloyd said of the group. The Baumanns plan on implementing an embryo transfer program very soon with Lucinda.

"If there was any cow that could have made this much milk, it would have been her," she said. "She's built to milk."

Adams County Holstein Club Reorganizes

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The Adams County Holtein Club held a reorganizational meeting recently at the Penn State Extension Office in Gettysburg.

John Clowney of Lagging Stream Farm in Gettysburg was elected president of the board of directors, while the outgoing president, Kevin Holtzinger of East Berlin, was elected vice president.

Phil Van Lieu of East Berlin was elected secretary, and Dean Lobaugh of Aspers was re-elected treasurer.

Marvin Brown of Littlestown was named to serve as the club's representative on the board of the state Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Tom Piper, county agent emeritus, was elected news reporter.

Other directors on the 1998 board include Donald Rhodes Jr. of Gettysburg, Rose Wenger of Littlestown, Todd Gulich of Littlestown, Daniel Waybright of Gettysburg, and Cheryl Ulrich of New Oxford.

In other business, the board approved a change in the term of office for its representative to the state board (state director).

The board changed its policy by reducing the term of office of its state director from three years to one year; and by having the director elected by membership at the club's annual meeting, instead of having the board appoint a director during its reorganizational meeting.

In committee leadership appointments, Marvin Brown was named to head its Membership Committee; Dan Waybright to head its Special Activities Committee; Kevin Holtzinger, Sales Activities Committee; Todd Gulick, Breed Improvement Committee; Holtzinger, Rhodes and Wenger, Show Committee; Van Lieu and Ulrich, Annual Meeting Committee; Lobaugh, Clowney, Brown, Ulrich and Holtzinger, Budget Committee.

Leadership for the club's Junior Activities Committee is to be appointed at the next board meeting. In the meantime, Van Lieu is to contact neighboring county clubs to learn how their youth programs are organized.

Also, a chairman for the Cheese Sale Committee is to be named later.

In other matters, membership renewal issues were discussed. It was decided that dues-delinquet members would be contacted prior to a membership meeting set to be held Dec. 29 at the Extension Office.

As a result of discussions of projects and events the club supports, Gulich is to explore the potential for a co-sponsored calf sale; Waybright and Ulrich are to develop a proposal for an out-of-county tour; and Waybright is to make plans for a summer twilight meeting on a county dairy farm.

Plans to co-sponsor a county dairy princess were tabled, pending the identification of qualified, interested candidates.

In a discussion of youth awards, the board requested that its Budget Committee come up with suggestions for additional awards to be initiated in 1988.

In other news, Clowney is to organize the club's ice cream sale fund raiser for the carnival in Harney, Maryland.

Also, the board took under advisement a letter offering suggestions for different club projects.

ARE CHICKENS BABY DINOSAURS - PART 3

Roland M. Leach, Jr.
Professor

In some previous articles I have used skeletal development to explore the potential relationship between chickens and dinosaurs. Now I would like to discuss some aspects of reproduction in the continuing debate on whether dinosaurs are closer to reptiles or birds.

Like alligators, crocodiles, and birds, dinosaurs laid eggs with calcified shells. Recent studies on the ultrastructure of these shells by scientists in Scotland showed many similarities among these species.

Therefore these results, although interesting, did not shed much light on the continuing debate. Although crocodiles and birds lay eggs with similar shell structure, they differ considerably with regard to the number of functional ovaries and oviducts. Birds such as our commonly used Leghorns have only one functional ovary and oviduct. There are two of each in early embryonic development, but by the time the chick hatches, there is only one ovary and oviduct which become functional at sexual maturity. Under natural conditions, birds lay one egg at a time and incubate eggs directly with body heat.

In contrast, crocodiles have two functional oviducts and lay two eggs at a time which are deposited in large clutches to incubate in mounds of vegetation.

Recent discoveries of dinosaur egg clutches in Montana has led to a re-examination of the reproductive activity of TROODON FORMOMUS, a 100 pound egg-laying dinosaur. By studying the nest and position and proximity of eggs in the nest, scientists have been able to reconstruct the reproductive behavior of this species. It's a tain't -- tain't crocodile, tain't bird. It shares features with each.

The nest of dinosaur eggs contained asymmetrically shaped eggs (like birds) standing narrow end down. Analysis of the egg spacing indicated a paired arrangement of the eggs, implying that there are two functional reproductive tracts with two eggs laid at one or several-day intervals (like crocodiles). However, the nest differed significantly from the vegetation mounds typical of crocodiles, suggesting brooding behavior similar to birds.

From these observations, the authors concluded that this species of dinosaur shared features found with both birds and dinosaurs. The size of the nest and pairing of the eggs suggested that there were two oviducts and ovaries similar to the crocodile. However, other features of the eggs and nests indicated that these animals had an incubation behavior similar to birds resulting in synchronous hatching. After constructing a map outlining reproductive traits, the authors concluded that this species of dinosaur was a very close relative of birds.

Local Junior Joins In Lean Beef Production

HAMBURG (Berks Co.) – Kirsty Dietrich of Hamburg has joined juniors across the nation in production and promotion of lean Limousin beef by recently becoming a member of the North American Limousin Junior Association (NALJA), the group of youth interested and involved in the Limousin cattle breed. The breed enjoys a world-wide reputation for production of lean, tasty beef.

Limousin beef serves both consumer demand for leaner meat and beef producers' demand of superior genetic traits. The number of producers using Limousin genetics in their herds has expanded dramatically over the years.

Similarly, the membership of NALJA has grown steadily, keeping pace with breed growth. Established in 1971, NALJA is an organization of youth under 21 interested in Limousin cattle. The 3,000-plus membership of NALJA is governed by a 10-member junior board of directors. Events and activities open to NALJA members include the National Junior Limousin Show and Congress held annually, and various awards, scholarships, field days, programs and classes.

For more information about being a member of NALJA, contact the North American Limousin Foundation office at (303) 220-1693 or stop by the website at www.nalf.org.

Dairy Situation And Outlook

December 15,1997

By Bob Cropp
Dairy Marketing and Policy Specialist

University Wisconsin-Madison

Total milk production for the month of November for 20 reporting states was 1.3% more than a year ago. While the number of milk cows were down 0.7%, milk per cow was up 2.0%. The 1.3% increase was the smallest increase since the 1.1% increase in March. A major reason for the slow down in relative increases is because a year ago milk production was recovering and relative increases were also greater.

The greatest decline in milk cow numbers was in Minnesota and Wisconsin with November numbers, respectively, 3.4% and 2.5% lower than a year ago. While the November total number of milk cows for the 20 states were down 51,000 head, the combined reduction for Minnesota and Wisconsin was 55,000 head. Minnesota also had 0.8% less milk per cow resulting in a 4.2% decrease in total milk production. Wisconsin's milk per cow was up 2.0, but not enough to offset the decline in cow numbers, resulting in a 0.5% decline in total milk production.

Both California and Idaho had strong increases in November milk production. Compared to a year ago, prodcution was up 5.9% and 7.0% respectively. Cow numbers were up 4.0% in California and 4.9% in Idaho. Increases in milk per cow were about normal, up 1.8% in California and 2.0% in Idaho. Washington, however, had a 2.3% decrease in cow numbers and a 0.6% decrease in milk per cow, netting 3.1% less total milk production.

Cow numbers were up 3.3% in Arizona and 5.1% in New Mexico, but down 2.0% in Texas. Milk per cow was down in both Arizona, 2.7% and Texas, 4.1%, but 2.9% higher in New Mexico. As a result, Arizona had just a 0.5% increase in total milk production and New Mexico had a 8.2% increase while production was down 6.1% in Texas.

November milk production was not strong in the Southeast. Compared to a year ago, production was down 1.6% in Florida, 6.1% in Kentucky and 2.2% in Missouri. Except for Florida where milk per cow was down 2.8%, the decline in total milk production was due to less milk cows.

Northeastern states all experienced fewer milk cows, New York 0.1%, Pennsylvania 0.3%, Ohio 1.1% and Michigan 4.4%. Except for Michigan, more milk per cow more than offset this decline in cow numbers. Total milk production was up 2.2% in New York, 2.7% in Pennsylvania, and 0.9% in Ohio, but down 1.6% in Michigan.

Similar milk production changes can be expected for December. If so, 1997 milk production will total about 156.9 billion pounds, up about 1.7% from the 154.3 billion pounds produced in 1996. Adjusting for the extra day in 1996, 1997 milk production will be up over 2%.

What does this milk production mean for farm level milk prices? Milk prices have held much better than earlier expected. The November BFP was $12.96 per hundredweight, $1.35 higher than a year and up $2.26 from the low of $10.70 in May. November was the fifth straight monthly increase. The December BFP may change little from November. However, it is normal for prices to decline seasonally in December and on into the new year. But the BFP dairy futures are trading above $12.00 per hundredweight through March 1998.

Most predict that the BFP will not drop below $11.00 as it did in 1997, but most predict a BFP below $12.00 first quarter of 1998. So dairy farmers may want to consider these rather favorable BFP futures and options. The chances of actual BFP prices being lower than these futures prices, I believe are greater than being higher.

The 40 pound block cheddar cheese price is the major mover of the BFP. Surprisingly, the CME price for 40 pound cheddar blocks has held thus far, where normally prices decline seasonally. In fact, the 40 pound block price increased $0.25 December 4 to $1.435 per pound. This is $0.1925 per pound higher than a year ago at this time.

CME barrel prices, on the other hand have shown considerable weakness. CME barrel prices started to drop on October 23 and have dropped 6 of the 7 weeks since. On December 11, barrels were $1.27 per pound, $0.0925 lower than the October price. The spread between barrels and blocks is abnormally large, $0.165 per pound.

The normal spread is 3 to 4 cents. This means that production will shift from barrels to blocks and put downward pressure on 40 pound block prices.

The good news for cheese prices is that sales have improved in recent months and production of cheese over year ago levels has slowed. October cheese production was up 1.1%, the smallest increase since April when production was actually down from year ago levels. January through October cheese production was 2.0% higher than for the same period a year ago.

With improved sales and slower cheese production, stocks of cheese have improved. As of October 31, stocks of Natural American cheese were 399.3 million pounds, 5.2% higher than a year ago, but down 5.2% from September 30 stocks. October 30 stocks of other natural cheese varieties were 24.5% lower than a year ago. This\ more favorable cheese supply/demand situation may prevent 40 pound cheddar cheese prices from collapsing quickly, but we can expect prices to start to decline.

Butter prices have fallen sharply in December. CME grade AA butter prices fell $0.08 per pound on December 5 and another $0.32 per pound on December 12. Grade AA price is now $1.20 per pound, but still $0.41 per pound higher than a year ago.

Butter prices normally decline in December as cream supplies improve and butter demand weakens after the holidays. Butter stocks, however, are not burdensome. October 30 stocks at 26.4 million pounds are 28.8% higher than a year ago, but a year ago stocks were below normal for this time of the year. But these stock levels do indicate further declines in the butter price. These higher prices are also keeping butter sales below year ago levels.

In summary, the December BFP may change little from November's $12.96. This will make the average BFP for the year slightly above $12.00 per hundredweight, compared to $13.39 average for 1996, but yet the third highest since 1990. The average all milk price will be about $13.25 compared to $14.74 for 1996, but also the third highest since 1990.

Looking into 1998, it appears the BFP will not reach the lows of 1997, and could average as high, if not higher than 1997. The impact of El Nino in the west, high hay prices this winter and crop conditions for 1998 can all hvae major impacts on 1998 milk prices. But as for now, 1998 milk prices look as good, if not better, than 1997.

Land O'Lakes Names Cruickshank Head Of Dairy Procurement Team

ST. PAUL, MN; December 23) – Land O'Lakes has named a veteran of the cooperative system and the dairy industry to head the dairy procurement team for its Pennsylvania-based Eastern Operations.

Chuck Cruickshank, who for the past three years has led the Land O'Lakes dairy enterprise consulting program, with responsibilities that included dairy and specialty feeds, will move to Pennsylvania after the first of the year.

Cruickshank has 20 years experience in local and regional cooperative systems, with major responsibilities for leading field service operations working directly with producers

The new assignment will be a return to home territory for Cruickshank and his family who have roots in the East. He has a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Economics from the State University of New York and did graduate work at Columbia University. His background includes work in a variety of market segments - generally serving the dairy industry; and work in a variety of geographic areas - principally the eastern U.S. and Midwest.

Don Berg, vice president of dairy procurement for Land O'Lakes said, "Chuck is an articulate and thoughtful leader who will bring an extensive knowledge of Land O'Lakes and the dairy industry to his work with the field staff and producer-members in the Mid Atlantic region "

Cruickshank is married and has two children

Pfautz Brothers' Fantastic KILE Hog One For The Books

explosion" they hoped for resulted in a hog with a loineye of 12 square inches.

The judging committee couldn't believe their eyes. A 12-inch loineye? Impossible! So they measured it again, and again, and again.

All three times they came up with the same results. The Pfautz kid's hog had a monster of a loineye!

At this year's Lancaster County 4-H Swine Banquet held recently at the Farm and Home Center, Cory was honored by Harry Bachman, president of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association and chairman of the swine show at KILE, for Cory's outstanding hog.

There were 282 head entered in the carcass competition at the show. Cory, 19, scored 68.16 at the show — the highest ever at KILE swine competition. Acceptable lean pork was a score of 68.67 — also besting the competition.

(Strauss Brothers of Ephrata had reserve grand champion barrow carcass with a KILE score of 63.376 and a 10.2-inch loineye.)

Cory spoke about some of the strategies used to come up with a fantastic hog before the award ceremonies at the county swine show.

He noted that it was simply the selection of genetics — no particular changes in feed use or exercise or use of the equipment at the farm — that garnered a KILE champion.

Cory's brother Kevin said the family inspected the Expected Progeny Difference (EPD) sheets on the sire closely. "There you see the hog's weaknesses and strengths," said Kevin.

Choosing the type of sow you are going to use requires patience. "You have to look at them for a while, take some time," Kevin said.

Preparation paid off well. According to Rick Pfautz, the champions at the Manheim Farm show were littermates to the dam. The hog looked big-framed, big-sided.

"This was a family accomplishment," said Sue Pfautz. "Kevin actually did the genetic homework. Cory bought the pig from him."

The mother of the hog itself was in contention for the 1996 Ephrata Fair championship. However, instead of selling the hog, the family decided to keep the gilt and bring her back to breed.

A good decision — because the dam had some potentially good genetics.

Rick Pfautz said it is often a challenge when you are working to breed the best kind of show pig. He noted that you have to watch the sow and impregnate her at exactly the right time. In a 36-hour period, she's the most fertile and you breed her during that critical window of opportunity.

Cory obtained a $1,000 check for the KILE grand champion barrow carcass.

Cory is used to the spotlight, however — he won champion showman at the 1993 state Farm Show.

Cory, a 1996 graduate of Warwick High School, obtained a degree in drafting from York Technical Institute, where he studied for two years. Cory works full-time as a drafter at Barton Associates in York.

Cory Pfautz, left, is congratuled by Harry Bachman at the recent Lancaster County Swine Club banquet.

Kevin, 15, is in the 9th grade at Warwick High School. Lisa, 16, is in the 11th grade at Warwick. All three plan to show hogs in January at the state Farm Show.

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor,

The Nov. 29, 1997 issue of Lancaster Farming contained an article from a university scientist who claimed that venison is not a low cholesterol meat, and went on to "show" in a tabulated form, that venison contained significantly higher cholesterol than a comparably-sized portion of beef.

As a veterinarian with good knowledge of meats (and as a deer hunter as well), let me firmly state that his facts are in error. I enclose a copy of compared analyses for several sorts of meat; it is very clear that venison is truly a lower fat, lower cholesterol meat, such that it is recommended as part of the diet for people requiring low fat/cholesterol, such as heart patients. This table of analysis is from "The Complete Venison Cookbook" by Harold W. Webster (Quail RidgePress, P.O. Box 123, Brandon, MS 39043). Mr. Webster's source is cited as D'Artagnan, which is a noted purveyor of exotic and game meats (399 St. Paul Ave., Jersey City, NJ 07306), and I should say that they certainly would know what they're talking about!

I enjoy reading Lancaster Farming every week. Keep up the good work!

Dairylea Testifies To Increase Farm Milk Price

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairylea Cooperative Inc., the largest milk marketing organization based in the Northeast, has testified at several hearings throughout the region in support of efforts to increase milk prices to dairy farmers.

Most recently, Dairylea Director of Planning and Regulatory Policy Ed Gallagher appeared at a hearing in New Jersey to consider increasing the price paid to farmers for Class I milk.

"Dairylea commends and supports efforts to increase milk prices to farmers in New Jersey," said Gallagher. "With the recent Minnesota Milk Producers Lawsuit decision that enjoins the Secretary of Agriculture from utilizing the current Class I differentials in most Federal Milk Marketing Orders — including those in the Northeast — efforts to stabilize and increase farm milk prices take on a much more significant importance."

Gallagher commented that Dairylea specifically supports the implementation of a $1.20 Class I over-order premium for milk produced in New Jersey and delivered to New Jersey Class I processing plants — as long as it is done in a manner that prevents Class I processors from subverting the pricing measure, and it results in a "real" increase in premiums to producers.

During his testimony, Gallagher outlined other strategies to raise New Jersey farm milk prices, including developing a tri-state plan — among the states of New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania — that will implement policy that raises returns to dairy farmers in the region and that can be implemented relatively quickly. At the same time, Gallagher called on lawmakers to pass legislation that would allow New Jersey to join the Northeast Dairy Compact as exists in the New England states.

In light of the recent Court decision that would eliminate Class I differentials, Gallagher also strongly urged the State of New Jersey to intervene and file an appeal in the Minnesota Case, if possible, and if not possible, to file an amicus brief asking the Court to stay the decision.

"The dairy farmers of New Jersey are under severe financial and emotional stress," explained Gallagher. "Plain and simple, market forces on a national level — which have the greatest influence in determining farm milk prices — have led to a severe decline in revenues for dairy farmers. With little change in feed prices and rises in other input costs, dairy farmers are facing a crippling cost/price squeeze. Despite their best efforts at cost containment on their farms, dairy producers are left short and frustrated when prices fall because supply and demand relationships — which are well beyond the control of dairy farmers — go against them."

Gallagher noted that the milk price crash of the past year has been well documented. "Prices are expected to end the year about 11 percent lower than a year ago," he reported. "This includes year-over-year price declines this past summer of as much as 22.5 percent."

As a means of clarifying the cost price squeeze that farmers are experiencing, Gallagher reviewed analysis of milk-feed price rations from a U.S. Department of Agriculture document, titled Agricultural Price Summary, which was compiled by the National Agricultural Statistical Service.

"For October 1997, the milk-feed price ratio was 2.46. This means that, with the value of one pound of milk, a dairy farmer could purchase 2.46 pounds of 16 percent mixed dairy feed," he explained. "This measure takes into account the value of milk and the cost of dairy feed and puts them on relative terms."

According to the document, the 1997 national milk feed ratios have been at the lowest levels since before 1986, for almost every month. "These ratios are even below those that existed in 1991 — the lowest milk price year of this decade," stressed Gallagher. Interpretation of this data indicates that although feed prices have fallen, milk prices have declined much more severely and have placed U.S. dairy farmers in the tightest cost/price squeeze they have experienced in many years.

As much as low prices are a problem for farmers, so is price volatility, added Gallagher. The Basic Formula Price (BFP), which affects approximately 80 to 90 percent of the Northeast's milk price, has experienced unprecedented volatility.

New Jersey Ready For EQIP

HACKETTSTOWN, N.J. – The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service has announced the second sign-up of the Environmental Quality Incentive Program (EQIP) through Jan. 16, 1998.

Established in the 1996 Farm Bill, EQIP provides a voluntary program for farmers to conserve water, soil, and related natural resources.

Nationally, EQIP provides technical, financial, and educational assistance to install or implement structural, vegetative, and management practices within a five-to-10 year contract period.

Here in New Jersey, local farms will fall into either the Statewide Program Area or the Upper Delaware/Raritan Watershed Priority Area.

The Upper Delaware/Raritan Watershed Priority Area has a mix of agricultural operations that vary considerably in type and size.

This priority area was selected based on its importance to the state's fish and wildlife resources, wetland resources, surface water supply, and farm family heritage. Farming enterprises range from grain production, dairy and beef operations, orchard crops, small fruits and vegetables, poultry operations, horse breeding farms, and nursery operations.

Also, in this priority area, the limestone valleys create many unique challenges in water quality with sinkholes and disappearing streams.

The 1997 round of EQIP brought $291,010 to the Upper Delaware region. The money to be allocated to this region for the second sign-up has not yet been determined. All of the four Warren County farmers who were approved for funding for EQIP signed conservation contracts on their farms.

Suggested conservation practices for cost-share support fall into three categories: water quality, soil resources, and watershed ecosystem protection and enhancement.

Cost-share incentives will be available as a percentage of actual cost to install (up to 75 percent) or as an incentive payment in the case of management practices.

Practices eligible for cost-share will be based on a Total Resource Management Plan developed specifically for each farm in conjunction with NRCS and the Warren County SCD. Natural resource conservation is the goal of the partnership between two important agencies.

The NRCS and the Warren County SCD work closedly together to determine the local natural resource needs and to implement critical programs that help ensure the future of the farmer.

Farmers or farmland owners may contact the Hackettstown Service Center of the NRCS at 908/852-5450 ext. 202 or the Warren County SCD at 908/852-2579.

This project was a joint effort of Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association, Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board, Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program and Pennsylvania Peach and Nectarine Research Program. Mr. Patton will give his views on dealing directly with super market buyers.

Concluding this conference will be a panel discussion involving some of your neighbors that are successful in capturing value-added dollars for their farm production. Pies, cookbooks, hayrides, salsa, jelly, gift baskets, maple syrup, waffles and ice cream are examples of past success's. # In The Lyons' Den You Find What's Good In Farming With Family average up to a top of 26,800 pounds.

Along the way new facilities have been built for the cows, dry cows, heifers, calves, and commodities. A new farm shop has been added.

For the Lyons, the emphasis is on milk production of a commercial herd. Every effort on the farm goes into making more milk. And everything that is done for future planning is done with the idea of passing the wealth of the farm on to the next generation without a lot of inheritance taxes and financial disruption should one of the partners die.

As each boy came of age, he worked two years for the partnership as a test of his committment to the farm. If he didn't want to farm, that was OK, but each person knew his committment, once he made it, was for the long term. And each boy took whatever time he needed to decide to join the partnership. After working away for six months, the younger brother came back to join the partnership, and it was at this time that the brothers became close-knit partners, and the family farming operation was on its way into the future. Today it's all for one and one for all.

"The thing that has always been in the back of my mind is what happens to the farm when I'm gone," Joe said. "I have seen so many cases where the son has stayed on the farm as dad's right- hand man for many years. Dad doesn't make provisions for the transfer of the farm to the son, and the farm must be sold to settle the estate. The boy who worked to build up the equity in the farm now can't afford to buy the place. And everything he worked for is gone.

"I live my life for my kids, and everything I do is designed with them in mind. You couldn't do this in a family that is not pulling together. But we get along pretty well. And after the youngest boy came back and joined the partnership, I saw the boys knit together in a comradeship that makes this kind of partnership work.

"The boys have been here to help pay off the debt, so why shouldn't they share in the equity of the whole operation?" Joe asks.

Basically, the equity is transfered to the boys each year up to the IRS gift limits with the equity pro-rated at the time each of the brothers entered the partnership. Each partner draws a salary, and life insurance covers each partner in case of an unforseen catastrophe.

"I'm not looking for the world," Joe said. "I have my boys working with me, and I can't ask for much more. Young people need help to get into farming. If my father-in-law would not have been there to stand behind me, I would not have been able to farm. He's the one that provided the financial backing I needed at the time. I want to pass on to the next generation the opportunities that were passed on to me. And this is what is working for us," Joe said.

As you leave the "Lyons' Den," you get the feeling that you have just visited a "pride of Lyons" that has put into every day practice the best of why it is so good to be farming with family. And you think you may have told the story better if you could have worked in such phrases as den mother and Lyons' cubs. But that will need to wait for the next cup of tea.

All Roads Lead To Uniontown

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The 1998 Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Convention is to be held Feb. 6-8 at the Holiday Inn in Uniontown, and all members and breed enthusiasts are welcomed.

Tucked in the southwestern corner of the state, below Pittsburgh, all roads lead to Uniontown, more or less.

Pennsylvania is roughly a lengthwise rectangle, with several major east-west routes, and fewer north-to-south corridors.

Access to an east-west route (generally even numbered roadways) is generally easier to find than north-to-south routes (generally odd numbered).

However, no matter from where the trip to Uniontown begins, it shouldn't prove too difficult to chart an efficient path of travel.

If in doubt, head toward Pittsburgh and then drop a little farther south. The Holiday Inn of Uniontown is located along Rt.40, on the west side of Uniontown.

From the southern tier and east, travel the Pennsylvania Turnpike west to Exit 8 (New Stanton). Take Rt. 119 south to Rt.40. Travel west on Rt.40.

From areas west of Uniontown, travel east on I70 to the Pa. Turnpike and, again, take the New Staton Exit, etc.

From the north, use Interstate 79 south to the Pennsylvania Turnpike, again taking Rt.119, and Rt.40.

If in trouble, call the hotel at (412) 437-2816.

Junior Holstein Convention Rules

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Participation in the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association annual convention requires a commitment from members to observe some basic rules of conduct.

Members cannot be permitted to participate in the convention unless they co-sign with a parent or guardian a copy of the convention rules, provide a telephone number of someone to call in case of an emergency, and submit it to the Pa. Holstein Association.

There are seven convention rules that junior members must agree to follow:

1. All juniors must be in their rooms by 12:30 a.m. on Friday, Feb. 6; and 1:30 a.m., on Saturday, Feb. 7.

2. Doors will be open at all times when mixed company is in the room.

3. Absolutely no drugs or alcohol will be used or consumed.

4. Upon registration, each junior will name a chaperone who is responsible for his or her action. If you do not name one, there will chaperones at the hotel.

5. Anyone found destroying hotel property will be charged for damages.

6. The Convention Committee will not be responsible for anyone leaving the convention facilities without permission of the convention chaperone.

7. Any violator of these rules will not be eligible for any state awards for a period of one year, and they will be sent home at the expense of the parent(s).

LIVESTOCK ❖ NOTES

Animal Derived Proteins Banned In Dairy Feeds-On Farm Records

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has enacted regulation 21 CAR 589.2000 entitled "Animal Proteins Prohibited from Ruminant Feed." This regulation, effective August 4, 1997, was enacted to prevent the potential establishment and spread of bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE, also known as "Mad Cow Disease") in the United States through feed. The regulation will reduce risk to animals and humans. It generally prohibits the use of animal proteins in humanist animal feeds, especially proteins from ruminants or mink.

There are exceptions to this prohibition. Pure porcine (swine) or pure equine (horse) protein; blood and blood products; gelatin; inspected meat products, which were cooked and offered for human food, or further heat processed for animal feed use (does not include trimmings from slaughter or butcher operations); milk products (milk and milk proteins); proteins from poultry, marine, and vegetable sources; and, animal tallow and other fat products may be fed to ruminants.

The regulation establishes certain requirements for renderers, protein blenders, feed manufacturers, distributors (including haulers), and individuals and establishments responsible for feeding ruminant animals. This includes your dairy farm!

All products that may contain prohibited materials must be labeled "Do not feed to cattle or other ruminants." Products that do not contain prohibited materials do not have to carry this label. The cautionary statement must be placed prominently on the label. For bulk products the cautionary statement should appear on the invoice accompanying the shipment and on any other labeling.

Requirements for dairy farms:

1. Maintain copies of all purchase invoices for all feeds received that contain animal protein. If a feed intended for ruminants contains animal protein, the protein can consist only of nonprohibited material. The regulation requires maintenance of invoices for all feeds containing animal protein, so that FDA can verify, if necessary, that the animal protein contained in the ruminant feed is from nonprohibited sources.

2. Maintain copies of labeling for feeds containing animal protein products received. The agency recognizes that bulk shipments of feed are commonplace, and that labeling information typically is contained in the invoices for bulk shipments. In those instances, keeping the invoice is sufficient. If the only labeling for a bulk product is on a placard, the placard for each shipment should be retained.

Feed also may be received in bags or other containers that have attached labeling. In those instances, the labeling should be removed and kept. However, keeping only one labeling piece from each shipment that represents a different product is necessary. Finally, if the labeling cannot be removed from the bag or a container cannot feasibly be stored, retaining a representative bag or a transposed copy of the labeling information from a container will suffice.

3. Make copies of the invoices and labeling available for inspection and copying by FDA.

4. Maintain the records for a minimum of one year. The records should be kept so that they are legible and readily retrievable. The one year requirement means one year from the date of the receipt of the product.

Dairy farm exceptions:

1. Feed and feed ingredients that do not contain animal proteins are non subject to the regulation.

2. On-farm mills are subject to the requirements in Part III of the regulation, "Protein blenders, feed manufacturers, and distributors.

3. Persons who feed or intend to feed prohibited material to ruminant animals are subject to regulatory action under the FFDCA. Regulatory action could include seizure of inventory, an injunction against feeding prohibited material to ruminants, or prosecution.

Biosecurity For Dairy Agents And Dairy 4-H Leaders

Farm tours, farm visits, judging sessions, and barn meetings are parts of extension youth and adult programming. Are they still viable options in an era of increased concern about spread of animal diseases from farm to farm and even from farm animals to people. What's an agent (or leader) to do?

- Avoid obvious high risk situations such as quarantined herds, newly assembled cattle groups, or clinically sick animals.
- Always wear plastic or "clean and cleanable" boots when you're on a farm. When you're conducting a meeting on a farm, supply plastic boots for everyone and collect dirty boots in a garbage bag for disposal.
- Avoid walking in feed alleys or feeding areas.
- If possible, visit young animals first, adult cattle last during your farm visit.
- Information that a farm has had BVD, Salmonella, Johne's, etc., probably does NOT make it a higher risk than other herds, unless these are clinically sick animals at the time of the farm visit. Many herds have these infections but have not confirmed the infections by laboratory diagnosis.

Adults and youth should be encouraged to avoid carrying infectious agents home by removing and/or sanitizing boots at departure from the meeting farm site. Clothes worn at the barn meeting should be washed before wearing them at the home farm.

Fair Board Elects President

FREDERICK, Md. – Maurice Gladhill of Frederick became the new president of the Frederick County Agricultural Society Inc. and The Great Frederick Fair during the board of managers' reorganizational meeting on Dec. 13.

The board's reorganizational meeting followed the agricultural society's annual stockholders' meeting also held that same day.

Nancy Hendricks of Middletown was elected vice president, while James Grimes of Frederick was elected secretary. Treasurer is J.R. Ramsburg Jr. of Thurmont.

Other fair board members re-elected were Joseph Free, Irvin Renn, Julien Delphey, James McCellan, and Robert Frank, all of Frederick; Clyde Crum of Thurmont; and John Bell of Walkersville, During the reorganizational meeting, committee appointments were also made.

Re-elected as legal counsel were Franklin Martz for the Frederick County Agricultural Society and W. Jerome Offutt for The Great Frederick Fair.

"The fair has always promoted education, whether it be for the exhibitors to learn something during the judging process at the fair, or whether the public have the opportunity to learn about the agricultural industry through displays and programs offered by the fair." Gladhill said." "Machinery Row and the City Streets, Country Roads exhibits are two prime examples of what this fair does to educate the public about and industry that affects each and everyone one of us everyday."

By next year's fair, Gladhill said the fair will have a new permanent milking facility completed on the fairgrounds in the dairy cattle barns area. "This is going to be yet another great educational tool for the public. as well as provide a service to our dairy exhibitors," he said. The flat milking facility will have six stalls and will be open fronted so that the public can watch the cow milking process

"Far too many people believe that a gallon of milk comes from the local grocery store shelf," Gladhill said. "This facility will help to show them that milk at the start comes from a cow.: The milking facility will have an observation area for the public to view the milking process. Throughout fair week it will be staffed by knowledgeable spokespersons who can relate the ongoing process to the public and answer their questions."

Gladhill has been involved in his family's John Deere business most of his life, assuming total ownership of Gladhill Tractor Mart in 1982. His family has owned and operated farms in the area since the 1800's, and his family has held a John Deere agreement since 1937.

Gladhill serves on numerous local boards, including the Frederick YMCA, the Central Maryland Farm Equipment Dealers Association and the F&M Bancorp and Farmers & Mechanics National Bank.

During the Frederick County Agricultural Society's annual 250-member stockholders' meeting, outgoing president Robert Frank detailed many of the progresses made over the past year, including gate entrance upgrades, life member gate upgrades, building and road improvements and computerization upgrades.

"Just as the coming year will be exciting, these past several years have also been rewarding and challenging," said Frank, who served as president for the past two years. "We've made a lot advancements and we still have more to come, but I believe we're moving in the right direction.:

The Great Frederick Fair won two national awards during the International Association of Fairs and Expositions Convention in Las Vegas, Nev. in early December.

The fair's City Streets, Country Roads Agriculture Education Awareness Exhibit won the overall award for outgoing public education focusing on agriculture.

The second award received by the fair was for its Ag-Stravaganza '97 celebration held Wednesday of fair week for a specific activity geared to the public on agriculture education. The program was judged based on a five minute video produced for the activity.

"We are very proud and honored that two such highly acclaimed awards have been brought home to The Great Frederick Fair," said Frank. "There has been a lot of hard work and effort put into both of these programs. The City Streets, Country Roads exhibit has been a natural for The Great Frederick Fair...we have been so fortunate to have the support from so many individuals and agricultural groups and organizations to make this exhibit be the success that it is."

Frank said, "the Ag-Stravaganza celebration was also a milestone in itself for the positive educational value it supplied to the general public and the heightened awareness it brought to the 4-H livestock program. When you have 2000-plus people watching and participating in program such as that, it's bound to have a significant impact on everyone. The program was put on for the 4-H'ers to bring them more recognition for their hard work and accomplishment.

"This is what fairs today have to be all about...educating and heightening the awareness about the agriculture industry," he said

During the annual stockholders meeting, The Great Frederick Fair's theme for 1998...Agriculture's Kaleidoscope ... was kicked off. The 136th Great Frederick Fair will be held Sept. 18-26.

"The theme is all encompassing of the agriculture industry, just as the fair is supportive of all segments," said Gladhill. Royal purple and gold will be the fair's featured colors.

"Next year will certainly be an exciting year for the fair, though it may be hard coming off of such a successful year in 1997," he said. "But there are a lot of activities in store that I believe will help keep moving this fair forward into a positive and exciting era, especially as we draw closer to the year 2000."

The new theme will soon be kicked off on the fair's website at www.thegreatfrederickfair.com The themed logo features the various facets of the agriculture industry, and like a kaleidoscope, it will have the changing effect on the fair's homepage

"We've come into a whole new era, just with the Internet and our presence and exposures with our own website," Gladhill said During the fair week, there were 19,000 visitors to the fair's website.

"With that kind of exposure, we have a lot of opportunity to educate, promote, and make people aware of who we are and the kinds of programs and events featured during our fair and off-season," he said.

Meanwhile, the board of managers announced the full-time staff addition of Robert Fogel of Walkersville who will assist with office responsibilities as well as help to oversee the fair's computer operations.

Fogel, 26, has worked on a part-time basis with the fair since 1996, and has been effective in getting in the fair completely computerized with entry taking and the recording of judging results and premium check issuance.

This past year when the fair automated its grandstand performance ticket sales, Fogel worked closely in helping to oversee that operation.

"We are fortunate to have Bobby join our staff and help in overseeing some of these various operations," said Frank. He will work closely with Becky Brashear, the fair's executive assistant, to help carry out many of the programs.

"Also with our busy off-season rental schedule and the overall planning that goes into the fair, it is really a bit more than one person can handle," Frank added. Fogel also oversees the fair's landscapers contest, helps with organizing the City Streets, Country Roads exhibit, and special promotional activities.

Penn State Signs Agreement With Council Of Cooperatives

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences has signed a five-year agreement with the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC) to continue ongoing joint education and research programs.

The pact calls for collaboration between the PCC and Penn State's Cooperative Business Education and Research Program to identify, prioritize and serve the educational needs of the cooperative community.

"Nearly one in threee Pennsylvanians is a member of a cooperative or uses cooperative services," says Dr. Robert Steele, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences. "Helping to sustain healthy cooperative businesses is consistent with Penn State's mission to serve the needs of the state's citizens. This joint program is considered a model for successful industry/university partnerships."

Under the agreement, the Cooperative Business Education and Research Program, which is administered by the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, develops educational programs for cooperative leaders, directors and employees, as well as for cooperative extension agents and secondary agricultural education teachers. The PCC, a trade organization of more than 25 agricultural and service cooperatives, provides financial support, in addition to business knowledge, expertise and information.

Cornerstones of the joint educational program are the annual Pennsylvania Cooperative Director Institute and the Summer Institute on Cooperative Education and Leadership.

According to U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics, Pennsylvania is home to 63 farm cooperatives, 22 rural credit unions, four farm credit associations and 13 rural electric cooperatives.

In 1995, 21 dairy cooperatives served nearly 8,000 members with almost $1.3 billion in sales; 48 marketing cooperatives served about 12,000 members whose sales totaled nearly $1.7 billion; seven supply cooperatives with more than 3,300 members generated $413 million in sales; eight service cooperatives provided $41 million in services to about 17,000 members; and rural electric cooperatives provided 186,000 members with power valued at $344 million.

Dairylea Testifies To Increase Farm Milk Price

"Between September 1996's record high price and 1997's low price in May, the price declined 30.4 percent," he said. "This is a cheese market-driven price. It is unfortunate that the volatile demand characteristics of the cheese market equally affect Class I prices. With recent changes in the BFP's updater calculation, the price is now much more driven by milk and cheese production in California. Producers in the Northeast are frustrated that cheese production on the West Coast affects Class I prices on the East Coast — even though Class I demand characteristics in the East have no linkage with the cheese demand characteristics out West."

The economic viability of the Garden State's rural economies is affected, in a large measure, by the health and vitality of its dairy farmers, Gallagher stated. As reported by the American Farmland Trust, for every dollar received by farmers from sales of agricultural products, $3-$5 are earned by local businesses.

"As much as all this is about low farm prices, it is also about rural economic development. Increases in New Jersey's milk prices will give a shot in the arm to rural economies. As dairy farmers have more money to pay their bills, those dollars reverberate through local economies and get turned over time and again," he said.

"Further decline in rural dollars will result in the loss of a sufficient base of economic activity that will eventually jeopardize the existing agricultural infrastructure. This would impact the feed and machinery dealers, providers of farm inputs and supplies, and veterinarians, among others," remarked Gallagher.

While the price of milk is vitally important to the profitability of the region's dairy farmers, Gallagher explained that Dairylea has intensified its efforts to create programs for members to lower their costs. Dairylea's Agri-Service Agencies provides very affordable health insurance, workers compensation insurance and other coverages to farmers. Additionally, Dairylea members have access to loan and cattle leasing programs. Other businesses include Dairy One, a milk and forage analysis and records keeping venture, designed to bring accurate and timely information to farms, thereby allowing farmers to make sound management decisions. Dairylea's Farm Services Division includes farm input buying programs, as well as an agricultural consulting network. Taken together, these programs can help farmers lower their production costs by 20¢ to 40¢ per hundredweight.

. "Yet, these cost reductions pale in comparison to milk prices that have fallen by $1.69, in the past year," declared Gallagher, who noted that prices could fall by an additional dollar or more if the Minnesota Milk Producers lawsuit decision stands.

In concluding his testimony, Gallagher reported that Dairylea has taken a leadership role in coordinating efforts with the major dairy cooperatives and other farm organizations in the region to promote emergency price relief and the Northeast Dairy Compact in New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania.

"It is vitally important that these states work together in any efforts aimed at increasing farm milk prices," stressed Gallagher. "We have been writing, meeting, and talking with key officials and legislators to bring about multi-state dialogue to enhance producer pay prices. We believe that a Compact must be put in place for the longer term for those times when the market is inadequately compensating the dairy producers in our region," he said.

"Additionally, Dairylea and other Northeastern dairy cooperatives are attempting to intervene in the Minnesota Case to protect dairy farmer income, immediately," he added.

Other representatives of Dairylea Cooperative have presented similar testimony at hearings conducted by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board and New York State Senate Agriculture Committee supporting over-order pricing, as well as the expansion of the Northeast Dairy Compact into New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Dairylea Cooperative Inc. is an agricultural service organization. It is cooperatively owned by 2,800 dairy farmers throughout the Northeast, 30 of whom operate in New Jersey. Dairylea markets nearly 5 billion pounds of milk annually, and participates, and is invested, in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Ohio.

Pioneer® Brand Hybrids in the 1997 NCGA Yield Contest:

Weigh Beyond Anything Else

Growers who have planted Pioneer® brand hybrids in their contest fields over the years have had excellent results. In this year's 1997 National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) yield contests, growers using Pioneer hybrids captured more firsts in the national contest than any other brand. In fact, out of a total of 27 firsts, seconds and thirds, Pioneer hybrids won 23! But, the real winners are the contest participants. The people who put the sweat and toil into doing the best job of corn growing they know how.

We salute all those growers who entered this year's contest. Here's how Pioneer hybrids performed in this area:

Ring In The New Year With These Tasty Tidbits

Entertaining is defined as pleasing, amusing, diverting, and interesting. No where do we see the words tension, anxiety, starched linens, polished silver, or elaborate menus ascribed to its meaning.

Here are fun foods to prepare, many that can be made ahead of time. Whether you're hosting an intimate gathering or an all-out bash for a crowd, the basics of entertaining are the same:

- Make a detailed list.
- Plan the menu
- Keep it simple.

• Gather the serving pieces ahead of time. Feel free to use paper products. Or mix and match plates, flatware, and stemware. As long as the pieces complement each other, blending is in the "in" thing to do.

• Keep the lights low so you don't have to dust.

Anything goes when it comes to entertaining in the '90s. So relax, be casual, and let the fun begin.

SMOKED SALMON AND HERB CHEESE NAPOLEON SLICES

2 packages frozen puff pastry, thawed
1 egg, lightly mixed with 1 tablespoon water
3 ounces cream cheese, softened
¾ cup shredded muenster cheese
¾ cup shredded harvarti cheese
2 tablespoons milk
2 teaspoons mustard
½ large cucumber, peeled, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons fresh dill, chopped
½ cup thinly sliced red onion
8-10 ounces thinly sliced smoked salmon or lox
Fresh dill sprigs (optional)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Thaw frozen puff pastry, if necessary. On a lightly floured board, roll one sheet of the pastry into a rectangle approximately 12x15-inches. Cut rectangle crosswise into 3 strips making three 12x5-inch pieces. Place rectangles on a lightly floured baking sheet. Pierce three pastry rectangles with a fork at 1-inch intervals. Brush tops with beaten egg, without dripping egg down pastry sides. Bake for 5 minutes, repierce any puffed areas. Bake an additional 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Rotate if necessary to ensure even browning. Remove from oven and cool. If stored overnight, cover with foil at room temperature. In a medium-size bowl, mix cheeses together on medium speed with an electric mixer. Add milk until mixture is of spreadable consistency. Trim pastry to even edges if necessary. Place on pastry rectangle on a platter and spread with a thin layer of mustard. Spread with ⅓ cup cheese mixture and top with half of cucumbers, overlapping slightly. Add half of the dill, onions, and salmon. Place second pastry rectangle on top and spread with ⅓ cup cheese. Repeat layering with remaining cucumber, dill, onion, and salmon. Spread underside of third pastry rectangle with remaining cheese and place on top of Napoleon, cheese side down. Garnish with fresh dill. Cut into 10 1-inch slices. Makes 1 Napoleon, serves 10.

New Year Brings Reflection, Anticipation For Bashores

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The year 1997 is coming to a close and 1998 lies ahead. For the Bashores and most other families, it's a time for reflection and a time of anticipation.

The end of the year, the beginning of the new, brings a time of reflection for Ricki and Roberta Bashore and their children. After surviving surgery for a brain tumor, Roberta said, "We have learned to appreciate life more, to live one day at a time, to enjoy each day for what's its worth."

Ricki and Roberta Bashore are counting their blessings, remembering what could have been, "if they hadn't found the brain tumor so quickly.... If they hadn't operated. If she hadn't gone to the doctor to find out why she couldn't hear out of one ear. If they had listened to the first diagnosis... If they hadn't operated. If medical technology hadn't been able to patch her skull with a steel plate. . . .

But all these "ifs" were eliminated and the outcome is optimistic because the Bashores believe in Roberta's adage: "pray a lot and believe in miracles."

That belief was established nine years when daughter Melissa was born after doctors had told the Bashores she could never have another baby. Andrea, then 8, prayed fervantly for a baby sister, and was rewarded with a baby sister born on her birthday—Dec. 22.

The Bashores live on a 150-acre farm, most eye-catching for the red painted message etched on the side of their white barn: "Drink Milk" and the real seal.

With 100 cows to milk, Roberta's place had been firmly entrenched in the barn along with her husband Ricki and kids Ricki Jr., Jennifer, Andrea, and Melissa, until. . . .

"After they put a metal plate in my head, they warned me not to get hit in the head," said Roberta, who had been kicked and bumped in the head numerous times while milking cows.

The family decided milking cows wasn't a safe place for her to be, especially after she touched a frayed wire and the electrical currents defined the exact spot where the steel plate was in her head.

Since then son Ricki Jr.'s wife took over Roberta's milking chores.

"Now I get to babysit my grandson," Roberta said. Make that and granddaughter. Last week Ricki Jr. and Stacy had a baby daughter.

The saga of Roberta's brain tumor actually began in September 1996. Because she had lost hearing in one ear, her husband encouraged her to go to the doctor. She had no other symptoms.

A magnetic resonance image (MRI) revealed a brain tumor. The news was devastating to the family. "I had grown up with only one grandmother, my kids had grown up with only one grandmother who died recently, and I thought my grandson was going to grow up with only one grandmother. I bawled for three days," she said.

But life had to gone on. Two days after the diagnosis, she was in charge of the closing program for Bible school. The kids were showing cattle at the county fair and she, as a 4-H leader, was to set up a booth at the fairgrounds.

Despite the family doctor's belief that it was a slow-growing tumor and non cancerous, the family insisted on a second opinion.

A Hershey neurosugeon recommended immediate surgery. It's a good thing he did. When they operated, the tumor had already penetrated the skull, and that is the reason a steel plate needed to be inserted to replace the section of the skull that was removed.

Today, Roberta has no side effects from the tumor. Ironically, the hearing loss for which she first sought medical treatment is not considered to have any connection to the brain tumor. Roberta still cannot hear in that ear and believes that her hearing is deteriorating in her other ear.

"I appreciate life more—especially the grandchildren. I live one day at a time and enjoy each day for what it's worth," she said.

Andrea said that the diagnosis of her mother's brain tumor changed her perspective on everything.

Her dad said of Andrea, "She has the softest heart in the family. It's changed us all. I'm not into as much rushing as before. I don't go for this rushing through milking, taking a quick shower, and driving as fast as I can so I won't be late for a meeting. Now I work slower. I stay home more and just enjoy the farm and family."

In a way, Ricki and Roberta came out with opposite ideas on what it means to enjoy life to the fullest. While Ricki desires to stay home and savor each moment, his wife is so delighted to be alive that she wants to do everything and go everywhere.

"She's in enough of stuff for us both," Ricki said of his reason for dropping membership in several farm organizations.

In addition to serving as dairy promotion chairperson, Roberta is a 4-H leader. She is president of Lebanon Farm Women Group 20. She has a dream—and a verbal commitment from her husband—to open a craft shop in the summerhouse on their farm. She sews extensively and enjoys numerous types of craft making.

More pressing at this time of the year is the upcoming Pennsylvania Farm Show. It's the time when daughter Andrea will receive the FFA Keystone Degree. (Andrea along with other Keystone recipients will be profiled in Section I of the Jan. 9 issue of Lancaster Farming).

CARE OF FRESH FLOWERS FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Best wishes for a blooming holiday season! It's time to fill each room in your house with fresh flowers. Bought from a florist, farmer's market or plant farm, a fresh arrangement lasts longer with extra care. For example, chrysanthemum last up to two weeks, carnations about one and roses about five days.

Select only roses and carnations that are not more than half open. The tighter the rose, the longer it will last. A warm room at 70 degrees or higher causes tulips, daffodils and iris to open too quickly. Buy them tightly closed as well. Gladiolus last longer if the top bud is snapped off. Removing the bud promoted flowering up and down the spike.

After arriving home with your fresh flowers fill a vase with water at room temperature. Before adding your flowers add a commercially available flower preservative to the water. Often, these preservatives are provided with a fresh flower from a florist. Look for flower preservatives at craft stores or flower shops.

Remove the lower foliage from all flower stems. Foliage left in water speeds up stem decay and causes a fowl odor as well. Recut the flower stems (about 1/2 inch) using a very sharp shears or knife. Put the freshly cut stems immediately in water. To keep roses fresh, recut the stems every other day.

Keep your flower display out of the direct sunlight. Keep them in the coolest rooms away from radiators. Heat from a television can shorten flower life. To keep flowers crisp, place your flowers in your coolest room at night or in the refrigerator. Add water daily to your flower arrangements.

When purchasing fresh flowers, avoid flowers with petals blemished by soil or water. The flowers' colors should be bright and clear. The foliage should look fresh with a bright shade of green. Stems should be straight and strong enough to support the flower bud.

To add variety to your fresh arrangement be creative and try something new. Here's several ideas. Add blue or purple pastel colors to your arrangements using a fragrant lavender spike Lavendula angustifolia, blazing star, liatris spicata, glove thistle, echinopsritro, or delphinium, Delphinium species. Delphiniums produce tall stems of blue, purple, white and pink. Heliotrope flowers are purple with a pleasing vanilla scent.

An endless assortment of colored carnations make holiday flower arranging easy. Mix with filler plants like baby's breath, small daisies or fluffy asters. The best filler colors are pale pink, blues and yellows. White fillers are best when making arrangements combining cool and warm color.

Try a fun arrangement using many bold colors, sizes and shapes of flowers. Sprigs of fragrant herbs or mints add an attractive scent to a bouquet. Or, use oregano or basil.

With the "end" in sight, it seemed appropriate to try to dispose of the pile of clippings accumulating on the desk. Start the new year with at least a semblance of desk organization. Yeah. Right.

'Cause I promptly got hung up on the first couple of clippings.

Topping the stack was an article about a York County farm in the center of a controversial rezoning. From agriculture to houses. So what else is new?

That, sadly, is what I had sighed to the Farmer when I first found the article in a local newspaper. It did clear up a puzzling phone message found a few days earlier on our machine, too late to respond to because of another meeting. Attempts to return the call were not successful; my apologies to the caller if he happens to read this.

Anyway, the proposed rezoning would turn some 170 acres of farmland into about 400 new houses. The developer claims the land is not very productive. Residents of the area are protesting because they don't want to lose any more of the area's rural character.

Member of municipal boards caught in these no-win, vise-grip positions between laws and emotions have my deepest sympathy and respect.

Two clippings down came another of a similar ilk. This one addressed the pressure being put of farms in Lancaster County. (Pick a county around here, any county, and this problem fits.)

That pressure has landed Lancaster County on the "endangered list" of the World Monuments Fund. I never heard of it before, but this group maintains a list of 100 of the world's most endangered sites. If you've ever run Route 30 around Lancaster (or York) on a Friday evening, you may have felt you had just landed on an endangered list, too. Definitely a related side-issue to the whole land use problem.

The bottom line here is that, despite the interest in farmland preservation, there just aren't enough bucks out there to stop this land erosion from sod to subdivisions. And, increasingly, it seems that the focus of that funding is being directed toward farms already surrounded or bordered by houses, roads, and the problems that come with those.

Does that really make sense? Would it not be more feasible, long-term, to focus the limited dollars there are on preserving blocks of more rural, contiguous farmland, where one can haul manure or stir up a bit of chisel dust without irritating 400 new neighbors?

The day an impatient driver smacked into the side of a tractor our son was legally driving on the public road left me with serious, permanent doubts as to why anyone in the future would want to farm around ever-growing, people-intense areas, with hordes of impatient drivers. That incident gave me "road-rage" before anyone had coined the term.

Stuck in between these two articles was the clincher clipping. It's message, that world population is outgrowing our food sources.

Well, duh.

Actually, we've been reading those sorts of headlines for the last–at least–25 years. So far, the problem has not been with production, but with distribution. Of food. And of wealth.

Latest statistics I've heard on food costs–in this country at least–is that consumers in 1996 paid only 11.7 percent of their income for food. That's down from 13.2 percent in 1990. Our lowball food costs are balanced on the backs of the nation's farmers who increasingly find the only answer to reconciling their bills or having any sort of retirement program is to sell the farm and get out. If they can.

One day, friends, we will have to pay the piper for our cheap food policy. Or our grandchildren will.

Make food production profitable, and farmers of the world will feed those billions of hungry mouths. Make farming profitable–and the sod to subdivision erosion will surely slow.

That's my wish for the New Year.

I'd hope it might be yours, too.

The other day someone called and asked, "How safe are sourdough starters and friendship breads?" This is a situation involving helpful bacteria and harmful bacteria. Some bacteria contributes to making foods such as cheese, yogurt, sauerkraut and sourdough. Harmful bacteria may cause foodborne illness.

The concern arises when the instructions say to leave the product, which often contains milk, at room temperature. Food science experts at Cornell, Oregon State, and Washington State Universities have commented that here seems to be little risk of contacting foodborne illness from properly prepared and handled starter. "Properly prepared starters are safe because they become acidic due to the fermentation action of lactic acid forming bacteria present in the mixture. These bacteria and the acid environment formed inhibit the growth of bacteria."

Recently there has been a revived interest in the starters used to make several kinds of breads and cakes. Sourdough has a pungent, earthy flavor it imparts to baked goods that yeast cannot provide. Before we had the modern convenience of purchased yeast, folks made a mixture called sourdough which needed to be replenished and tended each day. It is said that they even slept with it to keep it warm so it would be ready to make flapjacks in the morning.

Many people have their favorite recipes which they share with friends along with a cup of starter dough. In some recipes the starter itself makes the bread rise; in others additional leavening agents are used. Good starters add a characteristic flavor and texture to bread products. An experienced sourdough baker will be able to tell whether or not they have the intended result.

There are some precautions for handling sourdough and friendship breads starters:

For best results, store the starter in the refrigerator. Use a scalded glass jar or plastic bowl with a cover. Storing in a warm place increases the possibility that unwanted bacteria will ruin the product. Refrigeration does not harm the yeast, it just slows the rate of growth.

If you prepare sourdough starter from scratch, pasteurized milk will not produce lactic acid and form a good starter because the pasteurization has killed the bacteria that initiate the process. Pasteurized milk can be added to already-started starters because the organisms from the original culture are there. Experts suggest using a starter recipe that calls for cultured buttermilk or yogurt with active bacterial cultures.

Be aware that a starter may have been originally started using raw milk and may be a source of harmful bacteria. Never taste raw starter. The baking process will destroy harmful bacteria that may be present.

Discard starters that smell bad, turn reddish, orange, or green in color or grow mold. Good starters are bubbly and have a sour smell; friendship bread starter should have a sweet, tangy smell.

Starter can be frozen if it is not going to be used for several weeks. When you want to use it, thaw in the refrigerator, stirring occasionally. When completely thawed, set out at room temperature for 24 hours to increase fermentation action.

Use personal and kitchen cleanliness when preparing starters.

Practice, experience and good recipes add up to success in making sourdough breads and other baked products.

Here's Some Real Cool Facts!

Everyone knows that meat and ice cream should be stored in the freezer, but what about potato chips? Chips in the freezer and batteries in the refrigerator are two suggestions from the home economists at Whirlpool Corporation for getting the most out of your refrigerator/freezer

In addition to batteries in the fridge, the experts also recommend keeping film there until it is to be used And forget the old tale about never putting bananas in the refrigerator They'll stay fresher longer when placed in a plastic bag and stored in the crisper drawer The skins will darken, but the bananas will stay white and solid

To get the best possible service out of a refrigerator/freezer, there are a couple of important things to keep in mind First, arrange foods on the refrigerator and freezer shelves so that air can circulate freely Over-crowding can cause the temperature to rise Secondly, never line the refrigerator shelves with foil This will block air circulation causing poor performance from the unit

For food safety it is necessary to always make sure everything in the refrigerator is covered or properly wrapped Exposed food can be contaminated with bacteria from the air – even inside the fridge

Here are some unusual ideas to consider

Don't throw away leftover coffee or tea Iced tea and iced coffee tastes better over ice cubes made from coffee or tea Simply freeze old coffee or tea in an ice cube tray Empty the tray into a freezer bag and keep on hand for later use

When preparing a large amount of salad for a dinner party and refrigerator space is sparse, thoroughly wash out the crisper bin and make the salad right there in the bin This saves space and the salad remains crisp until it is served

Zinc, vitamin C might help cold symptoms

Is vitamin C or zinc better for colds?

There is some evidence that both can reduce the symptoms of the common cold, although scientific consensus remains up in the air.

Zinc made headlines last year when the Cleveland Clinic published a study of 100 cold sufferers who took lozenges containing 13.3 milligrams of zinc lozenges or placebos. Coughs, headaches, sore throats and nasal congestion tended to clear up one to three days earlier in those who took the zinc lozenges. However, many of the participants taking the zinc lozenges reported a bad taste in their mouths, and a good portion said they felt nauseous.

Researchers said the zinc must be taken within the first 24 hours that symptoms appear. Study participants took one lozenge every two hours — which meant that some took as much as 106 milligrams of zinc per day. That's more than seven times the Recommended Dietary Allowance for adult men. And nutritionists warn against taking that much zinc on a regular basis. Too much zinc can impair the immune system, reduce high-density lipoproteins — the "good" cholesterol — and interfere with the body's ability to absorb another nutrient, copper.

Vitamin C has also been the subject of several studies in relation to relieving cold symptoms. A few studies indicate that vitamin C might be a natural antihistamine, reducing a cold's symptoms of swollen nasal tissue, for example. And at least one study indicates that vitamin C might help some people, in some circumstances, fight off colds.

The study appeared in 1993 in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition. In it, only 14 percent of long-distance runners who took 600 milligrams of vitamin C daily for three weeks before a 54-mile race suffered from upper respiratory tract infections, while a whopping 68 percent of the runners who took a placebo became infected. However, the researchers could find no difference between vitamin C and a placebo in non-runners. The reason could be that long-distance running puts a lot of stress the body and lowers its resistance to infection. In such extreme circumstances, vitamin C might help.

One good thing: Overdosing on vitamin C has few, if any, side effects. The Recommended Dietary Allowance is 60 milligrams daily. What the body doesn't need, it flushes out of its system.

Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

If you make a New Year's resolution to lose weight by eating more nutritious foods and start an exercise program and become fit, this could be the most exciting and rewarding resolution you'll ever make. Reminder–a balance diet and exercise is the perfect combination that both nutritionists and physicians recommend.

However, some folks say–"I'll start January 1," then procrastinate and say "since the January 1 is a holiday, I'd better start January 2nd." When January 2nd arrives, are you going to keep the promise you made to yourself? With all good intentions, most people try some form of exercise for a week or so and then slowly begin to lose interest or postpone the fitness idea for one, two or three months till its time to think about buying a new swimsuit.

It definitely isn't easy to stick to an exercise program, especially if you don't enjoy the activity. It's important to try several different fitness activities and find one that you enjoy–whether it be walking, jogging, bike riding or cross-country skiing. Whatever you select–stick to your plan.

Regular exercise is a terrific "pick-me-up" activity because it gives you more energy, reduces stress, and increases your self-confidence. Regular exercise also helps us:

- Feel more alert
- Get rid of extra body fat
- Control weight
- Improve circulation
- Develop coordination
- Speed up the rate at which the body burns calories

Before you begin your own personal exercise program, look at the following checklist to help you plan:

- Are you dressed appropriately for indoor or outdoor activity?
- Are you wearing the proper foot gear for your activity? (good walking or running shoes, hiking boots, etc.)
- Have you tuned up your skis or other equipment?
- Have you planned appropriately for bad weather or have other ideas in mind in case the weather does ruin your plans?

As far as exercise options are concerned, think about the following when choosing an activity:

- If you prefer to exercise by yourself try jogging, walking, swimming, or exercising to an aerobics video.
- If you like to exercise with others, some suggestions might include tennis, an aerobics class, racquetball or any of the above activities.
- Adults who prefer to be outdoors when they exercise might choose ice skating, downhill skiing, cross-country skiing, running, hiking, walking or snowshoeing.
- Fitness buffs might try calisthenics, aerobic dance, bowling, nautilus/weight training, or riding a stationary bike.
- Can you devote a lot of time to exercise? If so, some suggestions might include long walks, long swims, distance running, or long hikes.
- On the other hand are you on a tight schedule? If you feel you don't have much free time, exercise for at least twenty minutes with an aerobic exercise video, a brisk walk or jog, or try exercising while watching television.

Choosing an activity that matches your lifestyle and interests and is an easy way to make exercise part of your everyday routine. Make your plan work for you, and enjoy the benefits of relaxation, a more even emotional state, increased self-confidence, and less reactivity to stress. Most of all, do it for yourself!!

PHEAA To Begin Direct Loan Consolidation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) – The Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) recently announced plans to consolidate student loans made through the federal government's Direct Lending Program.

The Agency's decision is in response to the Emergency Student Loan Act of 1997 which permits lenders to consolidate federal direct loans.

Under the plan, PHEAA will provide financial aid services as a guarantor of new loans, a consolidation agent and loan servicer for its clients, and as a lender.

PHEAA currently is accepting applications to consolidate Direct Loans with other federal student loans through its NETWORK Federal Loan Consolidation Program.

Previously, Direct Loans were eligible only for consolidation through the federal government's loan consolidation program. the U.S. Congress lifted this restriction due to the U.S. Department of Education's temporary backlog of applications for student loan refinancing.

PHEAA President and C.E.O. Michael H. Hershock praised the federal government's decision.

"Many of our students are using more than one loan to pay for their higher education, and some students with Direct Loans, who were unable to consolidate their loans with our highly successful NETWORK program, may be struggling to make several loan payments each month,; said Hershock.

"The passage of this legislation will enable us to expand our programs and services and ensure that a greater number of students make a smooth transition to the repayment process."

Direct Loans consolidated through the program will be eligible for the same benefits as other federal student loans including flexible repayment options and an income sensitive plan. There is no penalty for prepayment with the program.

A student with Direct Loans may consolidate the loans with other federally-guaranteed FFELP student loans. Due to a federal regulation, a student who already has a NETWORK consolidation loan can consolidate his or her Direct Loan into the existing NETWORK loan provided the Direct Loan was disbursed after the FFELP loan consolidation.

Married couples can consolidate their individual loans if they agree to hold the loans jointly and each be liable for repayment.

Borrowers interested in consolidating in consolidating their Federal student loans with PHEAA should call PHEAA NETWORK Loan Consolidation at (800) 338-5000 for an application.

Interested lenders are encouraged to call PHEAA's Marketing and Client Relations Group at 717-720-2750. Additional information can also be obtained from PHEAA's Internet Website at www.pheaa org.

16-ounce can pumpkin
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda

Combine the first four ingredients; sift dry ingredients together and add to the mixture. Drop by tablespoons onto greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until done.

Filling:

2 egg whites
5 teaspoons flour
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup shortening
2½ cups powdered sugar

Beat the egg whites, add the vanilla, stir in remaining ingredients and beat well. Spread the filling in between cooled cookies.

ANSWER — Sandra Trefry of Salem, Mass., wrote that as a young girl, she remembered her mother purchasing pickled limes, which were sold by the piece out of a gallon glass jar, which is similar to the way pickles are sold.

When the limes are pickled, the skin is tender and they have an unusual but wonderful flavor. Skin and all is eaten. She would love to know how to pickle limes. A reader thinks that the limes may have been made similar to pickled crabapples. Here is a recipe.

Crabapple Pickles

10 pounds crabapples
3½ -quarts sugar
2¾ cups cider vinegar
1 tablespoon whole cloves
2 teaspoons cassia buds
1 stick cinnamon

Wash crabapples thoroughly in warm soapy water, then rinse well in clear water. Prick apples in several places with a skewer. Do not remove stems. Place in roasting pan. Put sugar and vinegar into a 3-quart saucepan, heat to boling, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Pour over apples, add spices and cover pan. Place in 350 degree oven and cook 1½ hours, pushing apples below surface of liquid every now and then. Uncover and continue cooking for about ¾ hour, or until apples are almost tender and about half have burst skins. Lift carefully into wide-mouth jars and cover with syrup. Seal and process in a hot water bath 10 minutes, counting time after water starts to boil again. 6 quarts. Chill before serving.

ANSWER — A reader wanted a recipe for peach bisque. Thanks to a reader for sending the following.

Peach Bisque

10 to 12 fresh ripe peaches
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoon orange juice concentrate
¼ cup sweet sherry
2 cups sour cream

In a food processor, puree the peaches and sugar together. Blend in remaining ingredients. Chill at least 2 hours before serving. Serves 12.

ANSWER — Several readers requested a recipe for the friendship starter and ways to use it. Here are recipes for the fruit variety from Lee Laverty, Dover, N.J. Also, make sure you read the "Family Living Focus" column by Nancy Wiker in this section. She deals with the care of the starter and health-related issues.

Friendship Starter

¾ cup canned sliced peaches with syrup
¾ cup pineapple chunks with syrup
4-ounces red maraschino cherries, drained, halved
1½ cups sugar
1 package active dry yeast

In a gallon glass jar with a wide mouth lid, combine the ingredients, making sure yeast is well mixed with syrup. Stir two times the first day. Stir once a day afterwards. Do not refrigerate this mixture. Keep loosely covered.

Two weeks after starting the starter, add ½ cup peaches and ½ cup pineapple with syrup. Wait several days, stirring daily, then drain 2 cups of mixed fruit and use to make cake as directed in cake recipes. Reserve 1½ cups starter juice and leave in glass gallon jar. Count this as day one and begin the process for renewing the starter.

To Renew Starter:

Day One:
1½ cups starter juice
2½ cups sugar
2-pound can sliced peaches with syrup
Mix and loosely cover.

Day 10:
2½ cups sugar
2 one-pound cans pineapple chunks with juice or 1 can pineapple and 1 can fruit cocktail.
Mix and loosely cover.

Day 20:
2½ cups sugar
2 4-ounce jars maraschino cherries, drained, and halved (you can use one jar red and jar green).
Mix and loosely cover.

Day 30:

Drain fruit, reserving 1½ cups juice for renewing starter. Use drained fruit to make 3 cakes.

Give excess starter to friends and start a new batch of fruit, starting with day 1 of the renew starter.

It is very important that you stir the starter faithfully each day. Use canned fruit in heavy syrup, not own juice.

Friendship Fruitcake

1¾ cup fruit from starter, well drained
1 box yellow cake mix with pudding
⅔ cup vegetable oil
4 eggs
1 cup chopped pecans

Line the bottom of a springform angel food cake pan with waxed paper. Grease well, then flour.

In a large mixing bowl, combine cake mix and oil. Beat in eggs one at a time, beating well. Add fruit and mix well. Fold in nuts.

Pour batter into pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 40 minutes, then reduce to 300 degrees and bake 35-40 minutes more or until cake tests done.

Shake pan to loosen cake from sides; let sit 10 minutes. Lift center of pan out and turn cake onto cake plate. Remove waxed paper. Turn right side up for serving. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar if desired or top with cream cheese frosting. May add 1 cup flaked coconut.

ANSWER — A reader requested a recipe for potato filling. Here's a recipe from Anna Mae Fultz, Richfield.

Potato Filling Balls

Fill a large mixer bowl with soft bread crumbs. Add ½ medium onion and 3-4 stems celery (both chopped, not minced, in a blender). 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, ½ pound melted butter, about 1½ cups milk or enough to moisten, 2 beaten eggs, 1½ cups mashed potatoes, salt and pepper to taste.

Mix well. Use an ice cream scoop to form into balls; place side by side in a buttered baking dish. Pour a little more melted butter over them. Bake, uncovered, for 20 minutes in a 375 degree oven.

Here's another filling recipe from Helen Hertzler, Morgantown.

Potato Filling

Cook 15 minutes:
½ cup butter
1 medium onion, chopped
1 cup chopped celery

Meanwhile, mix the following:
1½ loaf king-size bread, cubed
6 eggs
5 cups milk
2 large pinches saffron in 1 cup boiling water
2 teaspoons salt
1½ quarts mashed potatoes.

Add all together. Dot with butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour, covered, and 15 minutes uncovered to brown top.

Usually freeze half of this for later use (prior to baking).

ANSWER — Meg from Pittsburgh wanted a simple recipe for apple sorbet. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Apple Sorbet

6 red apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 cups water
¾ cup granulated sugar or to taste
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Wash the apples and cut them into quarters with skin's seeds. Place the apples in a non-reactive saucepan and mix with the lemon juice, add the water and sugar and bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce the heat, cover and simmer for 45 minutes or until the apples are soft and mushy. Stir in vanilla.

Strain the mixture into a bowl through a food mill and discard the skin and pits. Refrigerate until cold.

Pour the mixture into an ice cream machine and freeze according to manufacturer's direction. Makes 1 quart.

Book Recounts York County's 75 Years In Conservation

YORK (York Co.) – The Conservation Society of York County has just completed the publication of its 75th anniversary history, 75 Years of Conservation: The Story of the Conservation Society of York County. The 135-page book with 16 photographs details how the organization has helped York County maintain its unique natural and historical treasures over the last three-quarters of a century.

The group began in 1922, when Henry Ulmer and other Yorkers responded to Governor Gifford Pinchot's idea that each county should have its own group dedicated to the conservation of historic places and natural resources, especially forests.

Between 1935 o 1980, the Conservation Society played a major role in preserving some of York County's most unique historical sites and leading the way in resolving some major conservation issues:

With help from the Izaak Walton League, Boy Scouts and other civic groups, the Conservation Society planted thousands of trees under the Keep Pennsylvania Green program. the Conservation Society also asked for a clean up of the Codorus Creek and the preservation of lower Susquehanna River bald eagle habitat during the 1950s. In addition, since the first Copperhead Roundup in the early 1960s, the group began changing attitudes about the value of snakes in the environment.

The Conservation Society was also responsible for the preservation of the Friends Meeting House on Philadelphia Street, Airville's Indian Steps Museum, Codorus Furnace near Manchester, Wills School near East Prospect, Lock 12 south of Sunnyburn, and two covered bridges that were washed away by Tropical Storm Agnes in 1972

Since 1980, the Conservation Society has been responsible for bringing a Native American festival, wildlife and nature art shows, and living history encampments to Indian Steps.

Today, the 350-member organization remains active in the preservation and conservation fields in York County.

75 Years of Conservation is currently available at Treasured Tales Paperback Trade in Dallastown, or by calling Garry Lehman at 755-3777, John Taylor at (717) 244-2024 or June Moyer at (717) 764-4318. The cost of the book is $7.95, with proceeds benefitting the Conservation Society and the Indian Steps Museum.

Cat Comforts Cow During Recovery

RANDY WELLS
Indiana Co. Correspondent

MAHAFFEY, (Clearfield Co.) – If a friend is someone who will stick by your side when the going gets tough, then Jenny the cow has a real friend in Penny the cat.

For more than a month Jenny lay just off the edge of a rural road in Bell Township, Clearfield County, chewing her cud and watching the cars drive by. She was unable to stand up after apparently injuring her back in a pasture fall.

Penny the cat is fine, and can come and go as she pleases. But for some reason she has chosen to stay by Jenny's side while she recuperates.

"If it wasn't for that cat, she'd surely be lonesome," said Homer Mott, a retired construction worker, township supervisor, school bus driver and farmer who owns both Jenny and Penny.

One night in mid-November Jenny was missing when Mott went to feed the other cattle on his farm. While looking for her the next day, he discovered two strands of wire broken in a pasture field fence. Then he heard Jenny mooing.

He found her lying on her side in a ditch with cold water running around her. She couldn't stand up. "Evidently during the rain the night before she lost her footing and slid down the bank into the ditch," Mott said.

After about three hours of work, Mott and several other people managed to pull the 900-pound Hereford onto dry land. But she was still in the winter pasture a short distance from the barn, and they couldn't coax her onto her feet.

"But she ate and she never missed a meal since," Mott said.

During the following two days, Mott kept Jenny covered with blankets and consulted a veterinarian, who suspects Jenny may have sprained muscles in her back when she fell.

"The vet said, 'You'll just have to wait her out. When she's ready to get up, she will,' " Mott said.

So while he was waiting for Jenny to get well enough to walk, Mott carried grain and hay and water to Jenny that she ate and drank from her pasture recovery bed among a scattering of pine trees.

Mott also had to carry cat food there.

"The cat moved in right away," he said. "I don't think she's been in the barn since. She stays right there in the hay at the cow's nose."

Mott said Penny came to the farm about a year ago. A passing motorist may have dropped her off. He doesn't recall the cat and cow being especially close friends until Jenny's fall.

"She's a barn cat," said Mott's wife, Della.

"I call her a guard cat," he added.

Neither of the Motts can explain why Penny decided to camp out in the open pasture by Jenny's side.

Mott has also raised dairy cattle and pigs at his farm over the years.

"All his animals are pets," Della said.

Because she was recuperating for so long in the same spot, passing motorists began to notice the cow.

"People stop and say, 'You've got a sick cow down there.' Like I don't know," Mott said.

Some passers-by even stopped to photograph the cow and cat snuggling together in the hay. Mott said some people probably thought Jenny was suffering in the pasture. But he kept dry bedding around her and she had no signs of other injuries. She appeared content and had a good appetite. And beef cattle in the western states tolerate much colder winter weather on the open range, he noted.

Gradually, Jenny began showing signs of recovery. She improved enough to roll from side to side, and eventually moved about 75 feet from the ditch. Mott tied her to a tree with a long rope so she wouldn't wander off when she did get to her feet again.

Mott hoped Jenny would improve quickly enough so he could move her into his barn before really cold, wet weather arrived. That would make it easier on him, too. He said he was getting a little tired of walking down the road in the middle of the night to check on her.

At 3 a.m. last Friday when Mott made his rounds, Jenny had stirred enough to throw off the blue plastic tarp he had spread over her back.

He covered her again and walked back to the farm house.

And then on Friday afternoon, she finally made it onto her feet.

"At first she just stood, she didn't move. For three hours she stood," Mott said. Then she lay back down where she was.

With some coaxing from Mott, Jenny rose to her feet again on Saturday morning, and finally–after what Mott called a month-long siege–had the strength to stroll back to the barn to continue her recovery.

Penny the cat moved back into the barn, too, Mott said. But she's still staying close to her friend.

Penny the cat keeps Jenny the cow company during her long recuperation.

Why do coyotes howl?
Coyotes don't intentionally howl at a full moon to scare you They're just talking to each other
That's right — those mournful bays and barks are coyotes' ways of communicating If you know what to listen for, you can tell apart the cries of coyotes, gray wolves and red wolves
Coyotes bark a short, high-pitched howl, red wolves carry inflection and melody, and gray wolves mourn a howl that slides down through an octave or more They can also change the sound, depending on the situation Different sounds tell all sorts of messages — like they are protecting their turf, sounding to a stray animal or rallying others for a hunt When wolves are defending their territory, for example, they are more likely to have a low-pitched, aggressive bark
If you have dogs at home, this shouldn't surprise you Dogs are distant cousins to wolves — so they communicate in similar ways And just like their cousins, dogs can have playful barks or very aggressive, protective barks
Dogs, wolves and coyotes are social, too If you need proof, listen closely the next time you hear dogs barking When one or two dogs start barking in your neighborhood, the rest of the neighborhood dogs usually join the conversation
Wolves and dogs will also howl along with emergency vehicle sirens To them, those sirens sound similar to howls In fact, wildlife biologists often use sirens to locate wild wolf packs!

'That Milk Thing' Kicks Off Soccer Campaign

TOWSON, Md. – "That Milk Thing" kicked off the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association's (MAMMA) region-wide soccer campaign with more than 4,000 elementary and middle school students during the Baltimore Spirit's School Day Soccer Game. As part of an approved school field trip, students from Baltimore and surrounding areas attended the Spirit's regular season game with the Milwaukee Wave. Prior to the game, "That Milk Thing" performed his "Eat Smart To Be Smart" assembly for the crowd, encouraging the children to eat breakfast and drink milk.

The Baltimore Spirit is one of three professional indoor soccer teams joining MAMMA to promote milk to more than one million young soccer players and their parents. As part of the Baltimore's Spirit's "Soccer Mom Of The Year" contest, MAMMA will promote milk as a crucial ingredient for moms to help their children grow strong and tall. MAMMA will also work with the Spirit to promote milk at pre-game soccer clinics and the All-Pro Soccer Academy for over 1,000 children.

MAMMA has also teamed up with the Harrisburg Heat and the Philadelphia KIXX soccer teams to reach children in the Harrisburg and Philadelphia markets. Since the youth programs, such as summer soccer camps and sports clinics, of these soccer teams reach into many of the rural areas surrounding Baltimore, Harrisburg, and Philadelphia, MAMMA's soccer campaign will extend the message– "Drink Milk, Three Glasses A Day!" to children throughout the entire Mid-Atlantic region.

MAMMA and the Harrisburg Heat are teaming up to make milk the official drink of Harrisburg Heat soccer. Along with milk promotion at Heat soccer clinics, camps, and other activities, MAMMA's milk message will also be featured on a 15-foot inflatable soccer tunnel and ball that will go to all Heat events.

Soccer players from all three teams will make appearances as part of MAMMA's in-school promotions. The players will position drinking milk and eating healthy foods as a crucial step to being successful in sports. Each team will also display milk-friendly signage at all home games.

MAMMA is a non-profit milk promotion and advertising association funded by Mid-Atlantic dairy farm families. MAMMA's soccer campaign and "That Milk Thing" are part of MAMMA's Kids/Gatekeepers Marketing Program, designed to increase milk consumption of children ages 6 to 11.

New Year Brings Reflection

Because this is the Bashores' third child to earn this distinction, the parents will also be honored with a special award during the ceremony.

Andrea has won her share of recognition in FFA. For three years in a row, she has been the Chapter Star Farmer, awarded for being the most outstanding student throughout the year. Her older sister Jennifer had won the honor four years in a row.

She is president of the FFA, is the Lebanon County Dairy Princess, and vice president of the Lebanon County 4-H Dairy Club.

Andrea has enjoyed the educational experiences through traveling with the FFA team to Kansas City and through participation in the National Institute of Cooperative Education (NICE).

Andrea is part of the state parlimentary procedure team that won state competition and then proceeded to national competition where they won a bronze medal.

Andrea plans to work toward the American Degree after graduation and is considering running for state FFA office. She also plans to join the newly formed FFA Alumni Club to help support the FFA.

Through the school English program, Andrea job-shadowed a flower design worker after her interest in it was piqued from exposure in ag class. A floral design job appeals to Andrea, who is considering technical school.

For now, Andrea participates in the work-study program that allows her to leave school at 11 a.m. daily to work on the family farm. She helps milk every morning at 5:30 and then does whatever needs to be done in the afternoon and evening.

All the siblings share something in common—dairy promotion. Andrea is the Lebanon County dairy princess. Five years ago, her sister Jennifer held that title. Brother Ricki married a former Lebanon County dairy princess—Stacy Krall, and Melissa was the former county Little Dairy Miss.

Ricki Jr. works full time on the family farm. He and his wife Stacy live in a home adjoining the farm acreage. Stacy helps milk, except she is now on maternity leave.

Jennifer moved off the farm this year to work as an assistant day-care supervisor. But she continues to work in dairy promotion. She is coordinator for the county dairy pageant.

Lebanon County Dairy Princess Andrea Bashore is a pro at mixing up dairy beverages. Andrea's older sister Jennifer and her sister-in-law Stacy Krall were former Lebanon County dairy princesses.

Roberta dreams of turning their summer kitchen into a craft shop to sell her sewing and craft projects.

At home on Udder Valley Farm are Ricki and Roberta Bashore with daughter Andrea, 17, who is the Lebanon County dairy princess, and Melissa, 9.

In addition to farming 120 acres on their Udder Valley Farm, the Bashores rent 300 additional acreas for raising feed for their own livestock.

More than half of the herd is registered. They are DHIA members and use a nutritionist, but Ricki said, "We are not interested in making the most milk. We want the most dollars. This is a family business—but a business nonetheless."

As the year draws to a close, Ricki said, "Farming has been good to us. I'm optimistic about the family farm. You have to be."

Ricki intends to expand the operation if his daughters want to become part of it.

"I'm not ready to quit yet, but I'll step down and let one of the kids work if it means a choice between a job for me or one of them," he said.

Candle Crafting Makes 'Scents' For Garden Treasures

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

MCVEYTOWN (Mifflin Co.) — When Kathy Phoenix of McVeytown, Mifflin County, gets up in the morning, she plugs in four crockpots. No, she's not expecting a crowd for dinner. She's melting scented wax to make candles.

Kathy's candles caught the attention of shoppers at Country Memories Day in McVeytown this past summer. So she made Christmasy versions for the "Christmas in the Park" craft show last month at the Mifflin County Youth Park in Reedsville.

"This is the easy way," Kathy says of using crockpots. "You have to be careful of fire when melting wax in a double boiler."

But what makes Kathy's candles unique? Herbs and evergreens.

"I mold a candle, then dip some herbs, evergreens or berries in wax and stick them around the outside of the candle. Then I redip until they're covered. The ones with arborvitae greens, trailing pine, barberries and holly look nice for Christmas."

Kathy makes another kind with decorated harder wax on the outside and a softer wax and wick in the inside. When the inner candle wax burns away leaving a hollow core, Kathy tells customers to insert a votive candle.

Kathy also pours wax into decorative painted flower pots. As the wax hardens, she pushes into the wax to remove any hollow areas. She refills again and again throughout the day until the wax stays level with the top of the flower pot. It's a five-hour process, but Kathy doesn't sit around waiting for wax to harden. She and her husband Frank are busy preparing for the spring opening of "Garden Treasures."

Kathy and Frank have built a 24x44-foot garden and gift shop with an 8-foot porch along the length of it. It sits near their house on their 50-acre Hereford farm called Twin Ponds. The farm is located back a long lane off the Ferguson Valley Road near McVeytown. They plan to fill their garden and gift shop with unique garden decorating ideas, crafts, and possibly plants.

"I've always loved gardening," reflects this Clinton County native. "We've built the shop ourselves except for the electrical work."

With her husband's woodworking skills, he and Kathy will spend the winter finishing the inside of the building and making wooden garden gift ideas for the grand opening. They plan to make everything themselves for the first year or two. They've even built a workshop on the end of the building.

Kathy often clips ideas from magazines, shows them to Frank, then he creates their own version from wood. He makes wooden toolboxes, birdhouses, birdhouse planters, Christmas trees and wheelbarrows. Kathy then finishes them with a worn country look, adds a flower here and there, or tole paints them.

"My mother took a tole painting class, then taught me. I started painting the flower pots through last winter. My mother sews too. She makes doll santas, bears, and lambs in linen dresses."

Kathy also makes living wreaths. She wires two wire wreaths together, fills them with soil then wraps them in sphagnum moss. Then she plants pansies or pink or white alyssum plants inside. If watered every day, they grow full and beautiful. Someday, she'd like customers to enjoy a cutting garden too.

So when the snow drifts their lane shut this winter, preventing Frank and Kathy from attending to the businesses they own in Lewistown, they'll keep busy preparing for the opening of their garden and gift shop, stopping every once in a while to refill an aromatic candle or two.

For more information about candles or garden treasures, call Kathy at (717) 899-7787.

HAPENINGS

4-H Tractor Safety Club

The Lebanon County 4-H Tractor Club is once again gearing up for this year's program.

Del Voight, Lebanon County agent, alerts interested individuals to the start date of Tuesday, Jan. 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lebanon Valley Agricultural Center.

At the meeting, 4-H'ers will be filling out necessary forms and breaking into separate units. All are invited to attend. The 4-H Tractor Program gives youth an opportunity to "learn by doing."

The course, beneficial to youth operating agricultural equipment as well as lawn and garden implements, will meet on consecutive Tuesday nights from 7:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. Instructions start Jan. 20.

At the meeting you will learn that better and safe tractor care results in longer tractor life, more power, and lower operating costs. When you learn how to do many small but important tractor maintenance jobs, you will gain better production from farm units and you will cut down on costly breakdowns. Older members will learn machinery maintenance and repair.

While you are learning how to care for your tractor, you should also learn how to be a safe operator. Another important goal of this program is to help you form good safety habits so you can think and act safely, at all times. Equally important with learning tractor care and safety is the 4-H goal of helping you to become a sound thinking citizen. The training you receive in your 4-H program will be beneficial to you throughout your lifetime.

May you or someone you know is interested in working on a farm this summer. If so, it's important that you become a certified tractor operator. One segment of the 4-H program, the occupational hazard course, offers 13-15 year-olds the training required to be certified to operate farm machinery. This is the only time the course and examination will be offered, so tell your friends and neighbors. The course is operated by screened volunteers and it is a sacrifice of their time and would be helpful for them to have more members to train and give their knowledge to.

For more information, call Del Voight at (717)270-4391.

Kelly Pike Wins 4-H Clover Award

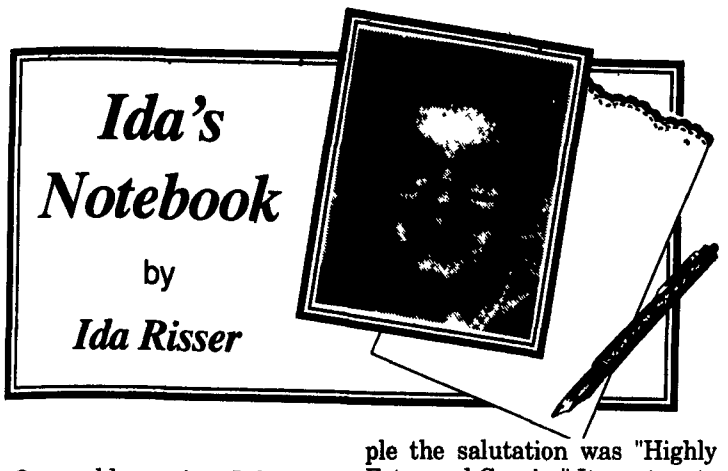
Kelly Pike, Quakertown, won the 4-H Clover Award the the Bucks County 4-H Achievement Night dinner held recently at the Lenape Valley Presbyterian Church. Kelly is the daughter of Jack and Shirley Pike. The Bucks County 4-H Clover Award is presented to 4-H'ers who have outstanding citizenship, leadership, and personal development records. Kelly excels in these areas while being very active in 4-H, school and community activities.

Kelly is 16 years old and a 10th grade student at Quakertown Community Senior High School. This is her eighth year as a 4-H member. She is president of the sheep club and a member of the Bucks County 4-H Voices and Action Team. She has also attended regional and state 4-H events such as Capitol Days in Harrisburg.

Kelly is also very active in her school. She is involved in student government, Executive Committee for the Class of 2000, SADD, German Club, and the Debate Team. She is also the treasurer of FBLA. Her high school guidance counselor calls her "a natural born leader who is willing to make Quakertown High School a better place to be."



On a cold morning, I decided to reread some old 1846, 1847, 1848 and 1851 letters that my great uncle saved. These letters were written before the United States printed postage stamps and thus only had a number written in the upper right hand corner. Another unusual thing about them is the fact that the letter was folded to become the envelope—all from one sheet of paper.

I found some of the language to be rather stilted. As an example the salutation was "Highly Esteemed Cousin." It went on to say that he was "highly gratified" with the information on this page that is "pleasing to the human mind." The writer was in Ohio and talked of going to Cincinnati to find a job at 75 cents a day. He said prices for grain were as follows; wheat 45 cents a bushel, rye 45 cents a bushel, corn 25 to 31 cents a bushel, oats 20 cents a bushel, and bacon was six to eight cents a pound. He also mentions that a railroad might be built that would take produce to Philadelphia and Baltimore much gaster than the present canal system. He says some friends have gone to Indiana to speculate on land and he wonders how much they will make in a year.

Then he gets personal and shares some of his thoughts—these written more than 100 years ago and now read by thousands of people.

This is what he writes; "According to my estimation it is most time for me and you to bring our single days to a determination. I have pitched on no one yet in particular. But, I'll bring things to an end in three years if I can suit myself.: He says that he may have to come back to Lancaster County as he remembers the "frequent social enjoyments last winter."

He promises to come a year from next spring and tells of an Ohio wedding. He says that 100 couples ate 12 turkeys, 8 guess, 22 chickens, and 30 pounds of cake at a party afterwards.

Nowadays, people communicate with computers and I doubt theat their thoughts will be preserved for someone to read and enjoy 100 years from now.

Berks Society 6

Berks County Farm Women group #6 held a luncheon meeting at the Red Lobster for October. Farm trivia questions led by Karen Hoffman were part of our entertainment after great food and fellowship.

The Farm Women County Convention held during October was attended by four members. Janice Youse, daughter of Linda Youse, was one of the recipients of Pennsylvania's Society of Farm Women Scholarship.

Election of officers for the 1998-99 term was held. Karen Hoffman, president; Naomi Mest, vice president; Dorothy Wagner, secretary; Barb Kelchner, treasurer; Joyce Mast, corresponding secretary.

The next meeting will be at the home of Janet Schlegel for craft night.

Lancaster Society 18

Lancaster Farm Women Society 18 held its December meeting with Maggie Carper as hostess. This was especially delightful as it was the first time many members were in Maggie's lovely new home. Seventeen members answered roll call by naming their favorite jelly. Strawberry was mentioned most often with mint being named only one time.

Maggie's daughter-in-law Linda Carper was the speaker. She is employed at Kitchen Kettle Village in the shop of jams, jellies, sauces, and about 60 wonderful creations of unique combinations—original and prepared from the best of summer fruits and vegetables. None is made from frozen ingredients. Creative workers plan, cook, and test each item. Add are carefully made under strict regulations. She filled a table of the products and members tasted each one as part of the refreshments.

The report of the Shoe Box Christmas Gifts for needy children revealed that members' 23 boxes were added to 12,000 others.

Several members volunteered to attend and report on news for Farm Women Convention held during the state Farm Show.

Roberta Shepherdson presided at the last of two years of meetings. A gift was presented to the outgoing president and the gavel passed to Martha Stoner for two years of guiding the society.

Before dismissal, members had one more surprise as Maggie's beautiful twin great grandchildren visited. The meeting ended with singing the birthday song and the theme song.

How Did Holiday Traditions Begin

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) – Traditions are all around us at this time of year. Some are local, regional, national or even global while other are enjoyed only as part of a family's special holiday. Here are some origins of some familiar Christmas traditions.

The term Christmas originated from Cristes Maesse (the Mass of Christ) first so called in the year 1038. Previous to being called Christmas the celebration was known as the Feast of the Nativity.

The Feast of the Nativity was first held on January 6, and was apparently changed to December 25 in the 4th Century A.D. in Rome.

The star, which many of us put at the top of our tree, comes from the Bible and accounts of the birth of Christ. Matthew records, "Where is he that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east and are come to worship him."

The use of the nativity scene seems to come from Spain. Even today, most spanish families have a nativity scene. After Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve all of the family gathers for a special dinner and then gathers around the nativity scene and sings carols.

While both the English and the Romans used wreaths and greenery in their celebrations the Christmas tree is considered to be of German origin. The fir tree represents life–especially in winter, when other trees are barren but the fir is evergreen. Pagan winter festivals used the evergreen tree before the celebrations were converted into Christmas. The present-day Christmas tree is a carry-over form the pagan rite where it represented life. In early times it was not decorated, but by the beginning of the 17th century glittering ornaments were added, along with fruits made of gold paper and festoons of silver. Legend is that Martin Luther, after wandering one Christmas Eve under a starry winter sky, set up a tree for his children and decorated it with candles as an image of the heaven.

Holly and Christmas have long been synonymous. The ancient Druids, an order of priests who lived two thousand years ago in Britain and Gaul, believed that if they decorated their dwellings with holly, they would be protected from the rigors of winter. The early Greeks and Romans sent holly boughs to their friends as a token of their friendship. Today it is a symbol of good wishes and good cheer.

The Romans, who gave holly boughs and other branches of trees or flowers, then began exchanging gifts of sweets, candles, lamps, copper, silver and gold. This is probably the most recent origin of exchanging Christmas gifts. And if your children have long lists that seem impossible to fill, that also is not new. The Emperor Calligula (37-42) upset his subjects by publishing an edict listing what he expected in the way of presents and stood on the stoop of his palace to

Checkoff-Funded Dairy Food Research Gives Milk Competitive Edge

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Improved color of fat-free milk. Extended dairy product shelf life. Taste and texture improvements in reduced-fat cheeses. Thanks to dairy farmer-funded research, consumers are getting more of what they demand from dairy products today.

To help increase consumer demand for dairy products, Dairy Management Inc.™ (DMI) is coordinating research nationwide to address these and other consumer concerns by creating new product uses and improving existing dairy products.

The new technologies, the result of dairy farmer-funded research conducted at dairy foods research centers located throughout the United States, were featured October 30-November 2 at Worldwide Food Expo, the industry's largest trade show. Highlights included: new technologies for fat-free milk; ways to increase product freshness; and more flavorful, easy-to-use lowfat cheeses.

Whiter Fat-Free Milk

Market research has shown that consumer demand for skim milk, now called "fat-free" milk, has tripled over the past 12 years. Between 1995 and 1996 alone, annual consumption of fat-free milk increased from 31.9 pounds to 33.7 pounds. Research indicates that even more consumers would reach for fat-free milk if it did not contain a "bluish" color.

In response, researchers at the Western Dairy Center at Utah State University, Logan, have developed a cost-effective method to produce a type of milk that can attract new consumers who want a fat-free beverage that still looks white. Consumers perceive it to be at least as "creamy" as 2% reduced-fat milk.

"This patented technology improves the color and perceived creaminess of fat-free milk and only costs processors about 1 cent per gallon of milk to implement," says Paul Savello, a researcher at the center.

Extending Shelf Life

Another consumer concern is product freshness. Supermarket research indicates that some consomers refuse to purchase anything that is not perceived as completely safe or fresh. With the help of farmer-funded research, Cornell University researchers have discovered a method of injecting carbon dioxide into fluid milk and cottage cheese to inhibit bacterial growth, which in turn extends the product's shelf life. Shelf life can be tripled when this process is combined with high-barrier packaging to prevent the carbon dioxide from dissipating.

"This technology improves the keeping quality of dairy foods during distribution to retail, as well as while products are waiting to be consumed at home," said Joseph Hotchkiss, a researcher at the Northeast Dairy Foods Research Center, Ithaca, NY.

Commercial adaptation of this technology will help expand retail distribution areas, reduce product returns from the retailer and increase consumer satisfaction, according to Linda Racicot, DMI group executive, nutrition and product research and business development.

Low-Fat Cheese

A third area of research involves developing lowfat cheddar cheeses that have full flavor and are easy to use in meal preparation.

According to cheese market research by the National Cheese Institute and A.C. Nielsen, total supermarket sales of cheese top $4 billion annually. Of that, 15.3% of total retail sales last year were in the reduced-fat and fat-free categories. Analysts predict, however, that sales of those cheese categories will account for half of all cheese purchased by the year 2000. More consumers will demand that cheese be made in reduced-fat and fat-free versions without sacrificing flavor or cooking ability.

Farmer-funded research is moving to take advantage of this market opportunity on three fronts, as researchers: 1) screen cheddar cheese cultures to identify those with lower fat potential; 2) investigate components of increased quality and flavor; and 3) look into new ways to maintain the texture of cheese in cooking.

For example, researchers at the Northeast Dairy Foods Research Center have produced a fat-free mozzarella cheese that performs like low-moisture, part-skim mozzarella (the cheese typically used on pizza). The same center also has developed a method of enhancing the whiteness of lowfat mozzarella cheese, which is important for consumer acceptance.

Wool Facts & Figures

Wool: What's New And Interesting

(NAPS)—Learning the ways wool weaves into our language and daily lives may make you feel warm and fuzzy all over Here are some interesting wool facts and figures·

"Dyed in the wool" means genuine Originally, the word "shoddy" meant fabric made of reused wool It's now often used to mean inferior.

When someone has been "fleeced," that means they've been swindled. To "pull the wool over one's eyes" is to fool them.

* * *

A "spinster" was usually an unmarried woman member of the family whose role was to spin wool.

In biblical times, wool was left outside at night to absorb the dew and wrung out in the morning

The sheep industry began in central Asia more than 10,000 years ago. Spinning started in 3500 B C.

* * *

In colonial America, resentment toward stiff English penalties established to discourage the growing American wool trade added to the cause of the Revolutionary War, along with the Stamp Act

For more than five generations Pendleton has made high quality wool products. Pendleton's computer controlled looms can produce enough shirt fabric in one day to cover a football field. A single Pendleton shirt may consist of as much as one mile of yarn.

* * *

Up until now, machine washing anything wool was sure to reduce it to dollsize proportions. But not anymore. Using a special yarn treatment Pendleton's luxurious shetland, lambswool and merino sweaters as well as a selection of 100 percent virgin wool shirts can be machine washed. Even after repeated washings, these garments have the same soft hand and great shape as when you first put it on

* * *.

Who says you can't teach sheep new tricks? Pendleton, wool experts for over 130 years, recently introduced a new 100 percent virgin wool shirt fabric that is so soft it's hard to believe it's wool. Made from the finest wool that's carefully selected then spun and woven to create the softest woolen fabric to carry the Pendleton name.

The fabric, known as Whisperwool, is versatile enough to wear over a favorite t-shirt or henley or soft enough to wear next to your skin.

What's new with wool? Some of the latest wool clothing is machine washable. A new version of wool is so soft it can be worn next to the skin.

Holiday Plants Last Longer With Proper Care

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Flowering plants are good Christmas gifts, and they can be a reminder of the giver for months to come. But how you take care of a gift plant will govern how long it will remain attractive in your home.

"If you give plants, take care to keep the gift alive until you present it," says J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture in the College of Agricultural Sciences. "Avoid subjecting it to freezing or other adverse conditions between the point of purchase and its final home. Even a few minutes in an unheated car, or the time it takes to move from the store to the car in freezing weather, can cause serious flower or foliage damage.

Recipients really don't need a lot of gardening experience to keep quality in holiday plants, Nuss says. If you follow a few simple suggestions, the plants and their flowers will last for weeks after the holiday season.

- Set the plants in bright light, but not in direct sunlight.
- Keep them as cool as possible
- Keep them out of drafts.
- Make certain the soil is kept moist but not soggy.
- Once plants begin to flower, they need a lot of light to maintain their quality.
- Remove the flowers when they fade.

Southeast or west windows provide the most light at this time of year. Avoid full sun, which tends to fade blooms, Nuss says, It is also a good idea to turn the plant weekly to keep it growing straight. If you have to set your holiday plant in a poorly lighted room, put it as close to artificial light as possible.

Just remember that incandescent lights give off heat, he explains, which may dry the plant. Consider moving it to a well-lighted location for several days during the week.

The cooler indoor temperatures typical for many houses are ideal for most flowering plants. Generally, 65 to 75 degrees F in the day and 50 t0 55 degrees F at night will not harm the plants. Locations near windows are often a bit cooler than other spots in a room.

It is important to realize that most holiday plants are produced under rather intensive conditions. They are not able to withstand moisture extremes around their roots. The roots will be severely damaged if they become bone dry or waterlogged.

At this time of year, the indoor air is dry and plants tend to lose water quickly, and open flowers lose water much faster than foliage. When you water, add enough so a portion of the water passes through the drain holes in the bottom of the pot. It is very easy to prevent a water-logged condition by discarding this extra drain water.

Light applications of soluble fertilizer can be used to retain foliage quality of your plant, Nuss says. Generally, one quarter the rate suggested for the growing season will be just about right.

Don't be disappointed if your plant doesn't last too long after the holidays — they were produced under ideal conditions, which you cannot duplicate in the home. Most holiday plants can be cut back after a few weeks and grown for use outdoors in spring and summer.

receive them in person.

Today, in some countries, gifts are exchanged on Christmas Day, but in many countries they are exchanged at Epiphany (January 6) to commemorate the coming of the Three Wise Men to Bethlehem, bearing gifts for the Christ Child (which is the ancient reason given for the origin of exchanging gifts).

Anciently, people used the mistletoe at the Festival of the Winter Solstice because it was considered sacred to the sun. The custom of kissing under the mistletoe was an early step in the celebration of the death of the old sun and the birth of the new at winter solstice.

In the northern countries of Europe, St. Martin and later St. Nicholas awarded good children with nuts, fruits, and sweets and those that had misbehaved with rods and switches. The Dutch called St. Nicholas by the name of Santa Klaus and as such he was taken by them to America and became Santa Claus.

The Christmas card is purely and English invention. In the early part of the last century it became the cutom for English school children to write and decorate "Christmas pieces" for their parents. In 1843 Sir Henry Cole and John Horsley created a more professional version of the Christmas pieces and the Christmas card was born.

Have a Happy Holiday!

Soybean Herbicide Controls Key Broadleaf Weeds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. – With the EPA's registration of FirstRate herbicide, soybean farmers will now be able to get effective, flexible, and economical control of their key broadleaf weeds in the 1998 growing season.

Manufactured by DowElanco, FirstRate can be applied surface preplant, preplant incorporated or post emergence, in all tillage systems, alone or in a variety of tank-mix combinations. It can also be used on all soil types with no pH restrictions.

Efficacy, flexibility, and value are what makes FirstRate different from other soybean herbicides on the market, according to Dave Maurer, DowElanco product marketing manager.

"There isn't any one aspect of FirstRate that is going to make soybean farmers choose it over their present soybean herbicide," said Maurer. "There are a number of them."

FirstRate was granted an Experimental Use Permit (EUP) in 1995, but the herbicide has been plot tested in more than 1,2000 locations across the United States.

Soybean farmers will be particularly pleased to learn that with either a soil-applied or post emergence application, FirstRate controls cocklebur, velvetleaf, morningglory, sunflower, common ragweed and giant ragweed in soybeans without concern of crop injury or carryover to crops such as wheat, and sorghum. The wide window of application allows farmers to target broadleaf weeds anywhere from two weeks prior to planting to flowering of the soybeans.

FirstRate provides control of cocklebur, common and giant ragweed, sunflower, velvetleaf, and morningglory that is equal to or better than currently available soybean herbicides.

"It controls a wide spectrum of broadleaf weeds and farmers can apply it anywhere from early spring, if applied preplant, to mid-summer, if post applied," Maurer said "And it can be mixed with a wide variety of partners for customized weed control. FirstRate is so flexible that farmers can use it to fit the specific needs of their operation. It's farmer-ready."

The packaging and formulation of FirstRate are also farmer friendly. The new herbicide consists of highly concentrated water-dispersible granules that are packaged in convenient water-soluble packs for easy use and storage.

It is expected that the most favorable method of applying FirstRate will vary from region to region. Midwestern soybean farmers are expected to use FirstRate as a soil or post applied treatment tank-mixed with, or included in a program with other herbicides for complete weed control. Soybean farmers in the southern United States will use FirstRate primarily as a post emergence application.

Case Acquires Tor-Master

RACINE, Wis. – Case Corporation has acquired the rights for single disk furrow opener technology from Tor-Master Mfg. Ltd. of Manitoba, Canada.

This acquisition, which is the latest in a series of acquisitions by Case, will further improve planting and seeding options for small grain and no-till soybean customers.

The agreement includes all design and patent rights to three types of openers; a single disk row crop furrow opener for use in crops such as soybeans, a single disk grain opener for use in small grains, and a single disk fertilizer opener designed specially for fertilizer applications.

"With this technology, we're in a better position to offer our wheat and no-till soybean customers clearly superior machines," said John Garrison, general manager, ag systems.

"In fact, the size and design of these openers virtually eliminates the need for coulters in most no-till situations, including wet conditions," he said.

Garrison said the greatest advantage to this technology is its ability to provide a better seed environment, which is critical for proper emergence and better yields.

The single dist technology features a heavier disk that is 22 percent larger in diameter than other single-disk openers. A larger disk, combined with a specially designed angle of entry, provides better soil-cutting action.

Another design feature is the off-center mounting of the gauge wheels.

"Center-mounted gauge wheels can cause compaction for the seed trench sidewall, which can have an adverse effect on seed environment," said Garrison. "By mounting the gauge wheels farther back, the sidewalls of the furrow crumble more evenly for better seed-to-soil contact."

This technology will be integrated with Concord drills and, ultimately, into Case IH no-till drill systems. Availability for 1998 will be limited, with full production scheduled for the 1999 growing season.

Ag Economic Outlook Bright

ST. LOUIS, Mo. – Both near and long-term economic outlooks are bright for the agricultural community, according to Rich Pottorff, Doane Agricultural Services, and Abner Womak, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Pottorff and Womack provided ag retailers with the latest economic projections at the Agricultural Retailers Association's 5th annual Convention and Expo in St. Louis, Dec. 3.

Retailers have the opportunity to provide increased services to growers looking for advice as CRP acres are retired, reported Pottorff, "Much of the 9 million acres of grassland coming out of CRP will be planted with row crops in '98, he said.

Pottorff also reports that potash and phosphate supplies will be tighter in 1998, therefore possibly raising the cost. He projects that nitrogen and crop protection products will have adequate supplies available with no upward price pressure.

Pottorff expects farm incomes to be down in both 1997 and 1998. However, he says the sector remains strong and healthy, with farm borrowing up over $160 billion and farm assets valued at more than $1 trillion.

Womack, who leads a team of researchers at the Food and Agricultural Policy Research Institute (FAPRI), reports that most experts agree the long-term global economy is in a new era of growth.

He cites the historic growth rate of personal income of one percent has risen 350 percent in recent years. It's currently at 3.5 percent To the ag sector, this means more people worldwide can afford more meat

A large contributing factor to the increasing availability of meat is the improved efficiencies attained in the conversion of grain into meat products. This increased efficiency allows for greater fluctuations in grain prices without disrupting meat production.

Looking toward this spring, Womack forecasts grain prices will be on the high side, but with greater fluctuation. He expects corn to be at $2.60 per bushel with more than 83 million acres planted, soybeans to be at $6 50 with 68-69 million acres planted, and wheat to be about $3.60 with 71-72 million acres planted.

Hoffman Seeds Markets Technology

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) – With the recently announced exclusive contract between Hoffman Seeds of Landisville and Novartis Seeds of Golden Valley, Minn., Hoffman Seeds markets an even better line of seed products for Northeast and mid-Atlantic growers. New Maximizer™ Technology from Novartis is an important part of this product line.

Novartis Seeds has developed exciting new seed traits to enhance corn, soybeans and alfalfa production. These traits, grouped under the umbrella of Maximizer™ Technology, are available from Hoffman Seeds and represent a significant enhancement of eastern agriculture. Hoffman continues to encourage growers to select hybrids/varieties based on adaptation and agronomic needs fist, and then integrated the desired new seed traits.

Examples of Maximizer™ Technology advances include:

•NK® Brand Bt Corn hybrids with YieldGard®

•NK® Brand BT corn hybrids with KnockOut™ provide benefits of significant yield protection from European corn borer, improved plant health and late season standability, and healthier plants that are better able to withstand the stresses of disease and drought.

•Roundup Ready® Soybeans — allows varieties to express their maximum yield potential and offer a potential to reduce costs.

•TopCross™ High Oil Corn provides the potential benefits of lower input costs, improved conditioning of animals, and improved weight gain.

•HopperGuard™ Potato Leaf Hopper Resistance provides benefits of high resistance to potato leafhopper, the most damaging alfalfa pest, higher yields, and reduce input costs and insecticide costs.

•STS™ Soybeans provide benefits of a broad spectrum of weed control, including some very tough broadleaves, reduces herbicide-related crop stress, and faster canopy closure.

Woods Equipment Company Acquires Wain-Roy Inc.

ROCKFORD, Ill. – To broaden its product offering in the construction equipment market, Woods Equipment Company has acquired Wain-Roy Inc., a Hubbardston, Mass. based manufacturer of quick coupler systems for tractor/loader/backhoes and hydraulic excavators.

"This decision is right in line with our strategy to increase our presence in the construction equipment marketplace," said Tom Laird, president and CEO of Woods. "There is no product overlap between Wain-Roy and Woods, which makes it an excellent fit as Woods continues to stake its claim as the attachments systems leader."

Wood Equipment Company manufactures and markets attachment systems in the agricultural, landscape, and construction markets. With the announcement of the acquisition, Laird also announced the appointment of Steve Starrett as Woods general manager of construction. Starrett is the former president of Wain-Roy Inc., he will have full responsibility for marketing the entire line of construction products and play a key role in the integration of the Wain-Roy and Woods operations.

The Wain-Roy acquisition gives Woods a whole new line of construction equipment attachment systems, including the Quick Change Rigid Tool Hitch Coupler Systems, available in manual or hydraulic release forms; Quick Change Grapples; Quick Change Ripper Buckets™; and the Quick Change JAW™.

Wain-Roy was established in the construction market more than 50 years ago. The company owns numerous patents on products such as the Ripper Bucket™, designed for frozen ground, sandstone, limestone, and other severe digging applications.

Pennsylvania Grazing And Forage Conference To Focus On Pastures

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) The 1998 Pennsylvania Grazing Conference to be held March 4-5 will feature numerous presentations and discussions focusing on pastures.

If you have interest in parasite buildup in pastures, poisonous weeds in pastures, pasture production during the "summer slum," applying manure to pastures, no-till renovation of pastures, or which pasture plant species are best for your farm, then you should make plans to attend the Grazing Conference at the Holiday Inn in Grantville.

In addition to these topics, many of which will include experienced graziers as presenters. Dr. Sinclair Mayne, a scientist from northern Ireland, will be the keynote speaker.

Mayne's grazing research with dairy cattle and beef at the Northern Ireland Research Institute is some of the strongest in the world. Sinclair Mayne's research has emphasized improving grazing management to increase intake and utilization of pasture. In addition he has been involved in a long-term study to evaluate the optimum genetic merit of various cow breeds for grazing management systems.

At informally structured evening sessions on March 4, there will be the opportunity to ask questions and discuss with fellow farmers current concerns on your farm or the grazing industry. There will also be an evening demonstration about using the internet to obtain access to a whole range of grazing information from your computer.

In addition to the structured educational program, there will be a trade show with company representatives available to showcase the latest in grazing technology. If it is New Zealand-style milking facilities or fence insulators that you are interested in, you can learn about it and purchase it at the trade show.

For more information, contact the Grazing Research and Education Center at (814)863-2543.

Pa Horticultural Society Announces Gold Medal Plant Awards

PHILADELPHIA – For 10 years a team of expert horticulturists and home gardeners has evaluated entries and awarded the Gold Medal to superior woody plants that are both disease and pest resistant.

Hardy from New York to Washington D.C., each plant has The Pennsylvania Horticulture Society's Seal of Approval. Winners are actively promoted in the nursery trade with growers, wholesalers, and retailers to ensure their availability to the gardening public.

To date, 61 woody plant selections, outstanding garden performers, have won the Gold Medal Award. Five outstanding plants have been selected as 1998 Gold Medal Plant Award winners They are:

•Aesculus parviflora, the Bottlebrush Buckeye, is a low maintenance shrub with a bold texture. Growing to 12 feet with a width of 15 feet in moist soil, Buckeye prefers partial shade and acid soil. Deer resistance and large summer flowers add to its list of delights.

•Clethra alnifolia "Ruby Spice" tolerates sun or shade when grown in moist soil. A stoloniferous shrub, growing to eight feet in 10 years, its rich pink flowers delight gardeners each July.

•Mahonia bealei is a striking evergreen shrub, adding a bold textural statement to any garden. Deer resistant, Mahonia will grow to five feet in part shade and prefers a moist, well-drained soil. Older plants bloom with chains of yellow flowers followed by blue berries.

• Schizophragma hydrangeoides "Moonlight" is a soft, silver variegated vine that attaches itself with no mechanical supports. Noninvasive, "Moonlight" tolerates sun or shade and grows to 40 feet. A wonderful accent plant, its white flowers bloom in June and July.

•Thuja "Green Giant" has a graceful texture and is a vigorous grower in any soil condition. A wonder habit makes it ideal for use as an evergreen screen or specimen plant. It ultimately reaches a height of 75 feet with a spread of 12-20 feet.

Full source and cultural information on these and past winners is available by mailing a stamped, self-addressed envelope (55-cents postage) to Gold Medal Plant Award, PA Horticultural Society, 100 N. 20th St., 5th Floor, Phila., PA 19103-1495 or visit the website: libertynet.org/~phs.

It Wasn't Raining When Noah Built His Ark...

But I bet he was glad he built it when that big rain came. Plan ahead. Keep Vitamix on hand. You will be glad you did; the first time your cow or calf gets symptoms of a contagious disease or infection.

Use Vitamix For...

*Cows after calving.
*Every virus.
*Every infection.
*Every contagious disease.
*Mastitis & Scours.
*When your cow or calf is off feed.
*Vitamix is for every dairyman who wants to stay in business.

*Vitamix costs less than antibiotics.
*Vitamix is all natural.
*Vitamix is faster than antibiotics.
*Vitamix is free from side effects.
*Vitamix is for anything one animal can catch from another.

You can use Vitamix if you have already used antibiotics and sulfa drugs; but antibiotics and sulfa drugs damage the immune system and it takes longer for your cows and calves to recover if you used antibiotics first.

You can sell the milk when you use Vitamix.

Do you remember when you raised 100 calves without losing a calf? If you are too young to remember that, ask a dairyman over 50 years old. Remember when staff mastitis and a lot of the common diseases of today were practically unheard of? Ask a Dairyman over 50 years old. All that was before the routine use of antibiotics. Use of antibiotics is like a revolving door; treating for the symptoms of another treatment. Get off the medical merry go round. Keep some Vitamix on hand.

One gallon of Vitamix is typically enough for about 60 cases of calf scours and it costs only $60.00 (when you get it by the five gallon bucket).

One gallon of Vitamix is typically enough for about 8 cases of mastitis. ($7.50 per cow). You save five days milk when you use Vitamix instead of antibiotics. Save about $40.00 per each case!!!

Vitamix is made by the same people who make Formula M.

VITAMIX, when you need a miracle!!!.

Conference To Look At Ag's Future

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) – Assessing the vision for the future of Pennsylvania agriculture will be the agenda for the seventh annual "Farming for the Future" Conference, Feb. 7-8, as an expected crowd of 700 will be "4 C-ing the Future: Communities and Cooperation Or Concentration and Consolidation."

The conference will be held for the first time at the Penn Stater Hotel and Conference Center (formerly the Penn State-Scanticon) in State College. Sponsored by Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA), the conference attracts hundreds of farmers, educators, researchers, and grassroots people for a dynamic weekend of learning and sharing. (Call (814)349-9856 for a registration packer.)

In breaking with a six-year tradition, Lauren Shorsher, PASA administrative director, noted, "We love the Nittany Lion Inn, it feels like home to us, but we just outgrew the facility. At the Penn Stater we will be able to handle more people, more exhibitors, and more workshops. Plus it is now operated by the same folks we worked with at the Inn so we feel we are getting the best of everything."

A s a result the conference will feature its largest lineup ever of practical presentations for farmers, food processors, consumers, and natural resource managers. Topics include value-added dairy marketing, alternative hog production, direct marketing of your crops and livestock, intensive rotational grazing, business management and planning, marketing cut flowers, tapping the internet, developing organic grain markets, managing cover crops, on-farm food processing, soil health, organic certification for Pennsylvania, Community Supported Agriculture, forming a pastured poultry association, and much more

The opening keynote speaker will be Denise O'Brien of Rolling Acres Farm in Iowa where she manages a diversified operation of poultry, vegetables, and high value fruit crops for local sale. A farmer and family farm activist for the last 20 years, O'Brien is past president of the National Family Farm Coalition and is on the board of Prairie Fire Rural Action. O'Brien is chair of the Women, Food and Agriculture Network, an organization that she co-founded to help develop connections between farm women and women working on all facets of sustainable agriculture and rural issues.

In introducing herself as a representative of farmers to the General Assembly of the United Nations in July of 1997, O'Brien said, "Up until two years ago my husband and I were medium-sized farmers milking 40 dairy cows, growing hogs, and raising approximately 200 acres of crops. Due to the debt crisis of U.S. farmers in the 1980s' and the intensive industrialization of agriculture in the Midwest, farming is no longer our only source of income. We were able to diversify, but this age of industrialized agriculture present few opportunities for someone to enter agriculture. This is a worldwide phenomenon. The basis for food production on small and medium sized farms is eroding as is the rural society that food producers have sustained."

In addition to her keynote, O'Brien, who also provided the "farmer's voice" at the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio, will also discuss the globalization of agriculture and organizing strategies for family farm activists. Closing the conference will be farm policy analyst Kathleen Merrigan of the Wallace Institute for Alternative Agriculture. A legislative dynamo, Merrigan has been a champion for sustainable and organic issues in Washington since 1987 where she crafted the federal organic legislation and played a key role in the creation of SARE.

Also scheduled to appear:

•Iowa hog farmer Tom Frantzen who will present two workshops on seasonal pasture farrowing and new deep bedded facilities for all ages of swine.

•Al Wenger of Wenger Feeds, Bob Junk, president of Pennsylvania Farmers Union, and Gary Valen from HSUSA will debate the question "Can Intensive Animal Agriculture Ever be Sustainable?"

•Four representatives from the recently formed Pioneer Valley Milk Producers Co-op will be on hand to describe their new milk product line, "Our Family Farms of Western Massachusetts," which is selling in regional stores at a premium price returned directly to the farmers.

•N.Y. state dairy producer Earl Spencer will discuss "Keeping Local Dairy Co-ops Alive" and the alternative marketing efforts of Allied Federated Co-op in New York State.

•Kate and Dale Thomsen, owner/operators of Willow Springs Farm in Bedford County will talk about their grass-based, holistic management system of producing pastured poultry and sheep diary products.

•John Hall, Michael Fields Ag Institute and Ron Doetch of Sharon International will discuss the high-value grain production they work with in two workshops: "Profitability of Integrated Cropping Systems" and Developing Organic Grain Systems and Markets."

•Michael Doctor and Linda Hildebrand, who operate CSA Works in western Massachusetts, will discuss large-scale CSA operations and linking CSAs with hunger organizations.

Opportunity For Success Centers On Marketing Strategies

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. – Farmers from across the country listened as agricultural leader emphasized the necessity for producers to develop strategic marketing plans for 1998.

Gene Paul, National Farmers President, Delavan, Minn., and Paul Olson, vice president, Taylor, Wis., encouraged independent producers to unlock the doors to a brighter agricultural future by using the latest network marketing tools.

In his state of the organization speech, Paul outlined the current state of production agriculture, and summarized industry consolidation and market volatility. "Producers must recognize the marketing environment they're operating in, and market together to positively influence prices," he said.

"Today we're seeing volatility in the market like we've never experienced in history, but that also means there are pricing opportunities," said Paul. And National Farmers commodity marketing programs help independent producers gain market access and take advantage of the narrow windows of marketing opportunities that exist.

To underscore his point of widening price swings, Paul provided producers with a marketing price summary for the last 12 months. In the last marketing year, volatility resulted in these percentage differences in prices: 59 percent for wheat, 43 percent for soybeans, 34 percent for corn, 40 percent for cattle, 20 percent for milk.

"Food is not just another commodity, it is essential to life, and the price volatility American farmers experience today makes it critical for them to place more emphasis than ever before on marketing," Paul said.

Paul pointed out using futures and options contracts to protect prices and take advantage of market upswings remain important parts of the family of Nation Farmers marketing programs.

He also said niche markets and an open and informed approach to exporting, can provide great potential for American producers. "I believe livestock producers can also benefit by forming small partnerships with each other," emphasized Paul. And producers also should take advantage of the multitude of farm groups and cooperatives representing agriculture today.

Paul also stood fast on behalf of U.S. consumer safety by endorsing country of origin labeling. "I'm proud of the production that comes from the farms and ranches in this country, and I believe labeling that production as U.S. grown will do more to restore consumer confidence than anything else."

Nation Farmers Vice President Paul Olson stressed the importance for America's farmers to embrace new ideas than can provide positive opportunities. "It doesn't hurt to keep an open mind, and it doesn't hurt to do some things differently," Olson said. "It doesn't hurt to do some different things. Think about that."

New Case IH 8580 Baler In Stock at Binkley & Hurst Bros. With Service After The Sale!

Case IH 8580 Center-Line Rectangular Baler

The Case International 8580 is designed for commercial producers and large hay operations that have big package needs With a 46 5" x 50 0" (1 18 x 1 27 m) bale chamber, the 8580 can form a bale up to 108" long, weighing up to 2,200 lbs (1000 kg) Just right for efficient handling, stacking and trucking

TOP-END PRODUCTION

The 8580 is no ordinary baler This system is designed for high-capacity hay production The 8580 can pack the equivalent of 20 to 40 conventional rectangular bales into a single package, and is capable of producing over 200 bales a day Also, storage requirements are actually reduced versus the equivalent tonnage of small rectangular bales This size bale is convenient for transport, and handling and stacking these bales is a snap, too They're much more manageable and stack better than round bales that are comparable in weight The best part about the 8580 though, is that it makes high-quality, weather-tight bales You won't find another line of balers that makes better quality hay It all begins with the center-line design— the same concept used on all Case International rectangular balers From the time the crop is swept up by the wide, low-profile pickup until it exits the bale chamber, it moves in a straight line The end product—a uniform bale that cures evenly for high-quality hay These bales feed better than others do, too Just cut the twine and break off as many flakes as your livestock need Or, they're easily ground or processed for feeding in either dairy or beef operations

QUALITY CONSTRUCTION

We know how critical field performance is to your success reliability is expected when buying any new piece of equipment That's why the 8580 is designed for ease of operation and built to last Its 18,700 lb weight is a testament to the amount of steel that goes into building one Its main frame, axle and hitch are high-strength, welded box-beams constructed to resist the twisting forces of rough terrain It doesn't stop there The massive gearbox transmits high torque loads, and a 460 lb flywheel absorbs and overcomes peak loads for smoother operation And, the 8580 features heavy-duty packer and stuffer fingers, as well as a heavy-duty plunger with a short 30-inch stroke length and 25 4 stroke-per-minute speed for reduced wear while being gentle on tender crops

DASHING THROUGH THE SNOW.

The storm will pass. And thankfully, so will a Kubota snowblower. Try our snowblower attached to a Kubota B-Series or L-Series tractor for a snow removal team that's hard to beat.

They are a cinch to operate using the tractor's 3-point hitch as a hydraulic lifting system. Clear snow from driveways, roads or parking lots. Break up and clear heavy drifts. A special heavy-duty rear mount snowblower is a recent addition to Kubota's B- and L-Series line-up.

So before the forecast calls for snow, make a dash to your Kubota dealer.

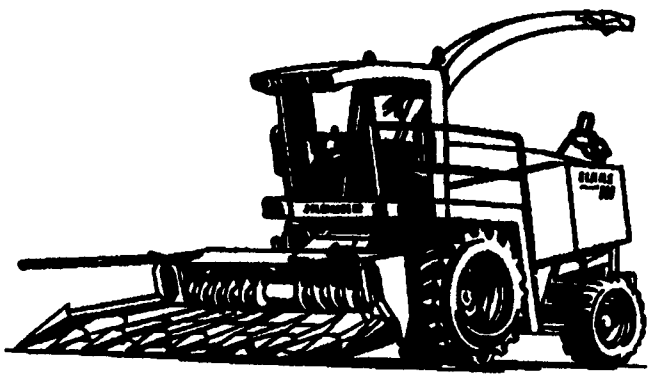
SEE WHAT SATISFIED CUSTOMERS SAY ABOUT THE CLAAS HARVESTER



...the most fuel efficient and raw powered engine on the farm, don't ever change the Mercedes! The straight flow design of the cutting system provides efficient use of the corn cracker.

...I am very impressed with the simplicity of design and the workability for service. The capacity of the CLAAS exceeded my expectations. My customers are very pleased with the uniformity of the chop length and the benefits of the corn cracker.

...The CLAAS has accessibility to all locations of the machine for maintenance and service. The Auto-Lube system was a major time saver. The fuel consumption with the Mercedes is 15% to 20% less per ton than my previous competitive machine.

...The CLAAS chopper is a well thought out, well planned, operator friendly machine built to stay running!

Dear Valued Customer, December 19, 1997

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!!!

The week of January 5th thru the 10th we will be holding our annual Open House with specials on parts, service and equipment.

On January 6, 1998 from 10:00 am until 2:00 pm representative David Argall will be here. He will answer questions you may have about agricultural concerns with state government rules and regulations.

Parts purchased this week will have a 10% Discount with the exception of the enclosed flyers. These specials run only during open house and must be paid in full that week. Anybody who places an early order before January 5, 1998, will be entered in a pre order drawing for five gift certificates held Monday morning January 5.

Our service department is also offering a 10% Special on work booked now thru open house week. In order to receive a 10% Discount you must speak to Russell, and have your name placed on the list. Repairs must be paid when equipment is picked up or delivered.

Our sales department is offering many Specials too, including both new and used equipment. Just stop by and see Chester, Terry, or Owen for these specials.

So stop by, get your parts, set up your service, and check out the new equipment. Lunch is being served Monday thru Friday from 11:30 am until 1:00 pm. Hope to see you then ... Thank you for your past patronage and we look forward to serving you in the future

Berks Extension To Hold Dairy Day

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) – The annual Dairy Day in Berks County will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 7 there at the Berks County Agricultural Center.

The Berks County Dairy Day will concentrate on two topics of great importance to dairymen; milk marketing and animal comfort and housing.

In the worldwide economy, the marketing of milk has and is changing daily. The days of stable markets and prices are probably gone forever. Discussion of the present regulations and players and a view into the future will be part of the program. Individuals from dairies will discuss their purchasing and marketing programs.

Cow comfort and animal housing are critical areas for dairy farmers if herd and individual cow production levels are to increase. Tunnel ventilation and mattresses are now common. Take home ideas for today's heifer and animal housing and cow comfort will be given.

The agenda for the program, which begins at 9:40 a.m., is as follows:

- Land Preservation Update
- Factors Influencing Your Price Today and Tomorrow
- Update on Heifer Housing
- Controlling the Price of Purchased Feed
- Cow Comfort
- The Buying of Milk
- How We Purchase and Market Our Milk
- Question and Answer Period with Milk Companies.

The program participants include:

- Clyde Myers, Penn State extension agent, Berks County.
- Robert Yonkers, Penn State extension dairy Economist.
- Dan McFarland, Penn State agricultural engineer, capitcl region.
- John Rutherford, Penn State farm management agent, Berks, Dauphin & Lebanon counties.
- David Arms, senior economist, Dietrich's Milk Products and Berkshire Dairy and Food Products.
- Robert Brown, supervisor of shipping and distribution, Rosenberger's Dairies.
- Mike Suever, marketing executive, Land O'Lakes.

Cost of the program is $4 which includes lunch and handouts. Reservations can be made by sending a check made payable to Berks County Extension Special Account and mailed to Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533. For more information and a flier, contact Clyde Myers at Penn State Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533, (610) 378-1327.

Keystone 21 Awards Grants To Food System Projects

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre County) – Keystone 21, a partnership between Cheyney University of Pennsylvania, Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Commonwealth Educational System, and the Rodale Institute, has funded two projects designed to enhance understanding about the food system among consumers, producers, processors, retailers and the media.

The projects were awarded Keystone Grants, which can total up to $30,000 per year to a maximum of $75,000 for three years. The projects are:

"Expanding the Dialogue About the Food System; Using a Media Forum to Enhance Communications Among Food System Stakeholders," a collaboration between Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, Penn State's College of Health and Human Development, and Cheyney University of Pennsylvania.

As part of this project, a media forum will be held in Philadelphia in the spring of 1998, bringing together newspaper reporters and editors, radio and television news staff, food industry professionals, agricultural producers, consumers and others. Perception and issues related to the food system, food safety, diet and nutrition, and media coverage of these topics will be discussed.

The forum will serve as a model for similar events planned for several other regions of Pennsylvania. Supporting video and printed educational materials will be produced as a guide to forum organizers.

Spin-offs of the forum could include the creation of continuing and professional education and outreach programs for dietitians, journalists, radio and television producers, teachers, cooperative extension agents, scientists, farm organizations and others; college credit courses in agricultural journalism; an annual "Foods and the Media" conference; creation of a rapid-response team of scientists able to speak accurately and articulately to the media about complex food system issues; and other initiatives.

The Allentown Food Enterprise and Education Project," a collaboration between the Community Action Development Corporation of the Lehigh Valley and the Rodale Institute.

Focusing on economically disadvantaged neighborhoods in downtown Allentown, organizers will work with regional food producers, processors, and vendors to produce and sell fresh and nutritious foods to area residents. Food-related enterprises will be encouraged as a vehicle for urban community development and consumer education.

Keystone 21 is seeking proposals for the next round of Keystone Grants. The application deadline is Feb. 15, 1998. For more information, contact Elsie Gurgevich, Keystone 21 project coordinator, at (814) 865-0114 or send e-mail to PAF-SPE@psu.edu. World Wide Web users can learn more from the project's Internet site at http://www.cas.psu.edu/docs/CASPROF/keystone21/keystone21hm.html.

The Penna Farm Show in Harrisburg, PA - Jan. 10-15.

If you need storage for forages, grains, or manure...you need to stop by our booths to get the latest information...or...call if you can't make it to the shows.

We will be introducing our new "LIVESTOCK CARCASS COMPOSTING BINS," an idea whose time has come, and a practice we will be seeing more and more as the environment receives more attention from legislators and community leaders.

Also, be sure to ask for our new literature and information on our "HI MOISTURE SHELLED CORN SILOS." Dairy and livestock feeders really appreciate the quality of corn they have when it is stored in a poured concrete silo.

Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

We at Susquehanna Valley Dairy wish you a joyous Christmas and a very prosperous 1998. We also want to thank all of our customers for making 1997 another good year. Listed below are some of the dairymen we've been privileged to work with in the past year.

1. Lamar Burkholder, Reamstown - bought a well bred herd, not pushed, the herd was averaging 55 lb. when he bought them, 2 months later, Lamar had them at 73 lb.
2. Steven Weaver, Stevens - bought a top herd in Vermont. Steven and his family had a celebration in the milk house one evening when they weren't even finished milking yet, and the tank started overflowing. 3 months after moving date, the milk man had to start coming every day, the herd was averaging 88 lb
3. Matt Stoltzfus, Gap - bought a top herd in Vermont. Imagine how thrilled Matt was when 2 months after moving date, he had a cow at 135 lb. per day. His milkman also had to start coming everyday
4. Dairyman in Little Britain - bought a top herd in Massachusetts. 6 days after moving date, the herd was averaging 65 lbs.
5. Harlan Zimmerman, Mifflinburg - bought a well bred, not pushed, herd in New York. The herd was averaging 55 lbs. in New York - 4 months after moving, they were averaging 70 lbs.
6. Eli Nolt, Annville - bought a top herd in Massachusetts. At 3x a day milking, Eli had them right at 100 lb daily average.
7. Lamar Zimmerman, Loysville - In 1996, bought a reg. 18,000 lb. herd in New Jersey. 18 months later, Lamar had the herd over 24,000 D.H.I.A. He also classified them with 1 Ex. cow and several high V.G.
8. A. Stoltzfus, Leola - bought a herd in New York in 1995. He bought 47 cows for his 42 cow barn. 2 years later when his own heifers started calving, he still wasn't able to tie in all his cows. He only culled 4 cows in the first 2 years. He was also the first dairyman on those facilities that had to have the milkman come every day.

Plus many more, 24 herds sold in 1997
Also groups of Heifers for expansion projects sold to:
Raymond Good, Lititz
Melvin & Tim Kreider, Mount Joy
Rodney & Gretchen Metzler, Martinsburg
Fred & Cindy England, Williamsburg
Art & Drane Zug, Millerstown
Luzerne Farm - Ed Quigley, Spruce Creek

*We are well aware that 1997 was a very difficult year for dairy farmers. As you've done so many times in the past, I guess you need to look ahead and hope you have a better year next year. Seems like the dairyman needs to find ways to produce milk for less money, when all expenses increase. *Glenn Shirk said, "Looks like the dairyman needs to learn to work smarter, not harder". *Phil Zimmerman said "When the going gets tough, that's when the tough get going". My dad said "A smooth sea never made a good sailor". So let's learn from this difficult year. Grab the helm of the ship with both hands - and do as Christopher Columbus did. Sail On! and believe. Deut. 28:1-8
